

Road Worker Dies Instantly Beneath Truck

Trapped as He Frees 3-Ton Load of Mix In Dump Box

George Lucas, 67, Hortonville, an Outagamie county highway worker, died instantly Tuesday afternoon when a dump truck box dropped on his neck, nearly decapitating him.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps ruled the accident was an industrial fatality, not a traffic death. Lucas died about 2:45 p.m. on County Trunk D, about a mile north of Highway 10 on the Outagamie-Waupaca county line.

James Steffen, 19, Hortonville, was working with Lucas, a truck driver and patrolman, patching the county trunk. The truck was loaded with three tons of bituminous mix.

Lift Jammed
The hydraulic elevating mechanism which raised the truck became jammed and Lucas and Steffen tried to free it. Sheriff Robert Heinritz was told. Lucas worked on the mechanism from beneath the truck, then leaned over the chassis members underneath the box and between the members and the box. Steffen also had his body partially under the box.

Lucas apparently freed the mechanism completely, causing the loaded truck box to fall to the frame, crushing him.

Negro Takes Supplies to Schweitzer

Naples —(AP)— A 13-year-old American Negro boy flew toward French Equatorial Africa today with $400,000 worth of medical supplies for Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Two transport planes, from France and Italy, carried the 9,000 pounds of supplies raised in answer to an appeal by Bobby Hill, son of Sgt. Henry Hill of Waycross, Ga., who is stationed at NATO headquarters outside Naples.

Bobby was seen off yesterday by Lt. Gen. Richard C. Lindsay, commander of NATO air forces in southern Europe, to whom the boy wrote a letter that got the project underway.

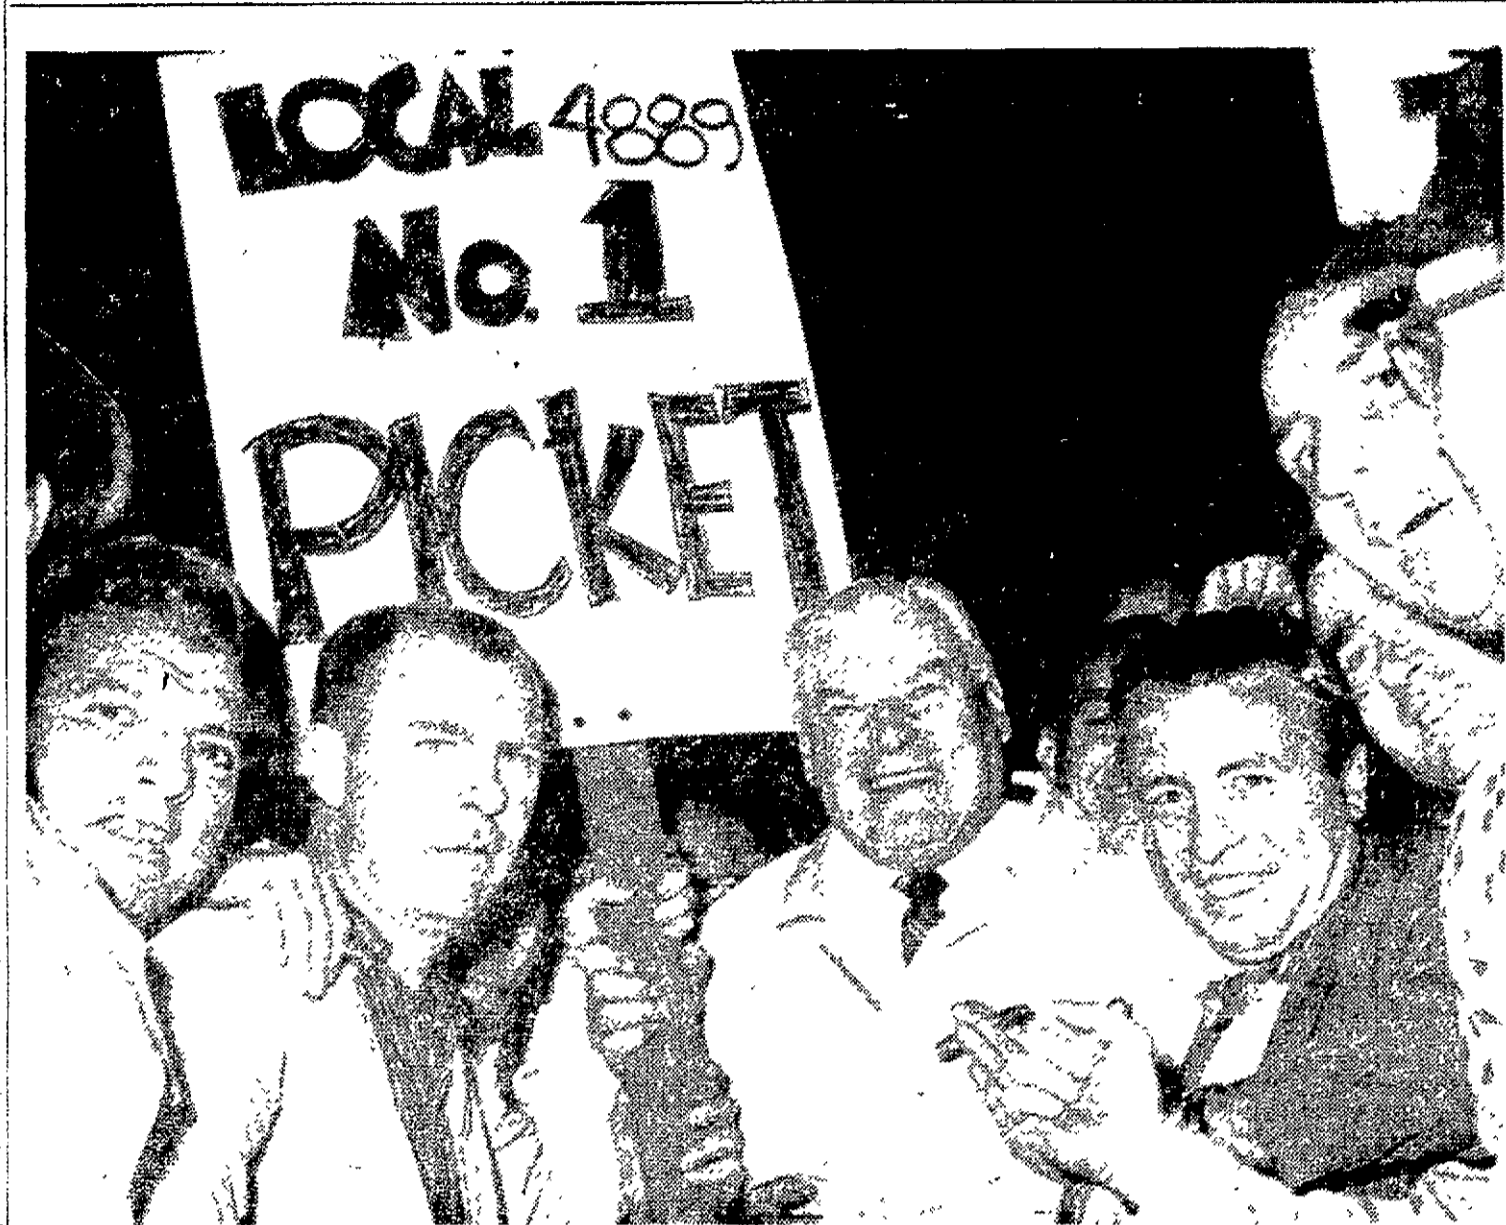

Wanted to Help
Bobby had read about Schweitzer, the Nobel prize winning humanitarian doctor who has spent nearly 50 years helping the natives in Africa. The child wanted to send medicine to Schweitzer. His father said he would buy as much as he could if Bobby could find a way to get the medicine to the doctor's jungle hospital.

Bobby wrote Lindsay: "I think that your planes, if they go where Dr. Schweitzer is, could deliver the medicine for me. Maybe other persons also will feel what I feel and will offer medicine too."

An Italian officer on the general's staff told the Italian state TV network about the boy's letter. An appeal was broadcast, and gifts from private citizens and drug houses flowed in. Lindsay supplied the planes.

Bobby himself carried a small package—his own contribution to the medical drive. He is due Friday in Lambarene, where Schweitzer has his hospital.

Steel Industry Shut Down As Nationwide Strike Starts

David J. McDonald, President of the United Steelworkers union, is given a picket sign by strikers at the U. S. Steel corporation's Morrisville, Pa., works. He came to the sprawling plant Tuesday night for the start of the steel strike. The walkout began at midnight after long negotiations failed to bring about agreement between company and union.

2 Months of Negotiating Fail to End Deadlock Over Contract Terms

Pittsburgh —(AP)— The nation's vast steel industry ground to a stop today in the sixth major shutdown since World war II.

There was no sign when it might get rolling again. A half-million steel workers, heeding the call of union leaders, struck after two months of contracts negotiations that had gotten nowhere.

The union gave no indication of retreating from its demand for higher wages and improved fringe benefits. Just as steadfastly, the industry stuck to its position that it could not increase production costs.

Those were the basic positions when negotiations began 10 weeks ago. They remained unchanged as the strike began.

The walkout shut off 90 per cent of the country's steel-making capacity and threatened to slow down the entire U. S. economy, booming once more after a crippling recession. Steel companies not represented by the USW

Union Favors Quiz by Board

Wants Fact-Finding Hearings as Prelude To New Discussions

New York —(AP)— The Steelworkers union today proposed the industry agree to submit strike issues to a fact-finding board to be headed by a neutral selected by Chief Justice Warren of the United States. David J. McDonald, Steelworkers union president, made the proposal in a letter to the industry's 4-man negotiating team.

McDonald proposed that the industry and union agree to the fact-finding procedure to sift the issues involved in all strike issues.

The union proposed that the investigating board be composed of a man named by the union, another by the industry and an impartial member to be named by Warren.

Basis For Talks
McDonald's letter to industry negotiators: "The union proposes that such fact-finding board be empowered to conduct hearings on all issues in dispute between the parties and to make recommendations for a fair and equitable settlement of these issues."

"While the recommendations of such a board would not be binding, we are confident that they would provide a basis for negotiation and settlement."

Senate Group Favors Change on 'Equal Time' Basis

Washington —(AP)— The senate commerce committee approved a bill today to exempt newscasts and other news programs from the requirement that political candidates be given equal time on radio and television broadcasts.

The legislation is the outgrowth of a ruling earlier this year by the federal communications commission that equal time must be given to political candidates who demanded it.

The ruling was made in the case of Lars Daly, a perennial and unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Chicago, who demanded equal time for broadcasts on Chicago stations.

Weatherly Denies He Ever Used Secret Monitoring System

Madison —(AP)— Madison's former police chief, Bruce Weatherly, says he never used a secret monitoring system to listen in on subordinates or record conversations in private offices.

"I never used that monitoring equipment and I never had a tape on that recorder," Weatherly told newsmen Tuesday.

The former chief, tanned and 10 pounds heavier after a month's vacation in Texas, said he had no immediate plans for employment.

Weatherly was fired by the fire and police commission last spring for misconduct after a January traffic accident in which he was involved.

U. S. Court Upholds Dixon-Yates Claim

Combine Wins Damage Suit On Contract Cancellation

Washington —(AP)— The U. S. Court of Claims today upheld the claim of the Dixon-Yates combine for damages because the government canceled its controversial power contract.

Dividing 3-2, the court rejected the government's contention that the activities of Adolphe H. Wenzell constituted a conflict of interest. It ruled Dixon-Yates should be reimbursed for out-of-pocket costs before the contract was canceled.

Judge J. Warren Madden, who spoke for the majority, said the court saw "not the slightest conflict of interest in Wenzell's position."

The court awarded $1,867,545.56, which was about what Dixon-Yates finally asked.

Claimed $3.5 Million
Originally the claim had been for about $3½ million.

Wenzell served as a consultant to the budget bureau at the same time he was a salaried official of the First Boston corporation, which became financial agent for Dixon-Yates interests.

It was on this ground that the justice department contended the government should be relieved of paying anything to Dixon-Yates as a result of the contract cancellation.

The Dixon-Yates contract, entered into by the atomic energy commission at the time it was headed by Lewis

Housing Bill Under Attack

Democrats Rap Newest Proposals By Eisenhower

Washington —(AP)— Democrats balked today at accepting the Eisenhower administration's newest version of a housing bill.

Instead, Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) said a banking subcommittee he heads will begin hearings soon on President Eisenhower's veto of a Democratic-sponsored measure the chief executive called extravagant and inflationary.

"We know the president is wrong in the statements he made about this bill and we are going to show on record that he is wrong," Sparkman said.

Promises Full Hearings
"We are going to have a hearing on this bill but it will be written only after full hearings. We are not going to accept just anything he throws at us."

Sparkman joined Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas in denouncing Eisenhower's contention that the vetoed bill would have involved $2,200,000,000 in expenditures. The Democrats estimated costs of the 2-year program at $1,375,000,000.

Johnson told the senate yesterday that Eisenhower's figure was arrived at by a "Madison avenue gimmick" of including estimates for possible public housing subsidies for the next 40 years. In the public housing program the federal government makes up by subsidy the difference between costs and the rents received.

Sparkman said that never before, since the original act covering such projects became law in 1949, have these indefinite payments been counted as part of the cost of any housing bill.

Senate Votes Defense Funds

Ike's Total Budget Requests Topped By $568 Million

Washington —(AP)— The senate so far has exceeded President Eisenhower's budget requests by $568 million with passage of the biggest of the money bills — the $40 billion defense measure.

Despite this record, however, congress still seems to be in a good position to make some over-all cut in the president's total appropriations requests when it winds up the 1959 session.

Democratic leaders have been predicting such a cut, although senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) has been saying recently the final total may not be too much below the Eisenhower budget.

The senate passed the big defense bill 90-0 yesterday after two days of debate. It included in the measure $39,594,339,000 of new money as well as $450 million of transfers from revolving funds.

The new cash was $346 million more than President Eisenhower asked and $746 million more than the house voted.

$403 Million Road Budget Gets Assembly's Approval

2-Year Spending Program May Meet Opposition in Senate

Madison —(AP)— The assembly gave overwhelming approval Tuesday to the state's record $403 million highway budget. The vote was 98-1.

The 2-year spending plan, however, is expected to encounter some Republican opposition in the senate because of a feature calling for diversion of $330,000 in unclaimed motor fuel refunds for development of public water access points.

Financing of the budget is provided from existing revenues, such as motor fuel taxes and motor vehicle registration fees, and federal highway aid.

Park, Forest Roads
The budget also boosts spending for state park and forest roads from $1 million to $1,400,000. An attempt by Elmer Nitschke, R-Beaver Dam, to reduce the amount failed.

The legislature was asked by the governor to adopt the budget with the understanding it may be changed in the fall session to speed up development of key north-south routes to the state's vacationland.

These routes, as previously listed by the governor, are U. S. 45 running into north-

Russia Must Respect Rights

Ike Won't Go to Summit Parleys Unless They Do

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower said today Russia must give clear recognition of allied rights and responsibilities in West Berlin before he will agree to a summit conference.

He reaffirmed, at a news conference, his determination to avoid any surrender of allied rights in the quarrel with Russia over the future of the divided city.

He said that the United States will not make any retreat which could be looked on as clear evidence of weakness.

Eisenhower said the resumed east-west talks at Geneva have gotten off to what he called a slow start.

Eisenhower flared up in a show of anger today at what he called a newsman's implication someone in the executive branch of the government is guilty of fraud.

Asked About Secrecy
The president snapped that he doesn't believe anything of the sort.

Eisenhower's displeasure was roused at his news conference by a question from Clark R. Mollenhoff, representative of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Mollenhoff spoke of what he called secrecy on executive branch operations. He said there had been suggestions that such secrecy might cover up fraud and mismanagement.

Try to End Strike In Milwaukee Area

Milwaukee —(AP)— The U. S. Conciliation Service set up a conference today with representatives of the Independent Teamsters Local 290 and the Allied Construction Employers' association in the hope of settling a strike that has started to paralyze building activity in the Milwaukee area.

About 1,300 truck drivers struck about 90 construction firms in a 4-county area Tuesday. Milwaukee, Ozaukee, Washington and Waukesha counties are involved and some 20,000 jobs are affected.

Heavy Slaughter
Nevada now has between 5,000 and 7,000 wild horses, she said, but once had thousands more. In a 4-year period after World War II, she said, 100,000 were killed in Nevada.

Baring said his bill was aimed both at securing humane treatment and saving the animals from extinction. "Mustangs are as traditional to the west as the six gun," he said.

Battle of Wild Horses

Slaughter of Mustangs Brings Congress Stampede of Letters

BY MARTHA COLE

Washington —(AP)— Congress faces the wild horse issue today.

Some members hope it will be settled soon. Seldom has an issue touched such a responsive chord in the hearts of their constituents. Their offices have been overwhelmed by mail!

Witnesses Wait
The issue is this: Should congress pass a law controlling the hunting down of wild mustangs on the western ranges? Commercial hunters, using airplanes and trucks, now run the stampede to exhaustion, catch them and sell them to factories to make into cat and dog food.

Witnesses at a house hearing include congressmen from districts where wild horses are somewhat scarce (Tennessee and Wisconsin), spokesman for humane groups and the Garden Club of America.

"Wild Horse Annie" a one-woman lobby, is Mrs. Velma B. Johnston from the Double Lazy Heart ranch near Reno, Nev. She's been working since 1952 for controls on wild horse round-ups.

Mrs. Johnston concedes there once were too many wild horses over-running the ranges. She says now the herds are down to about 20,000 head and face extinction.

She supports a bill by Rep. Walter S. Baring (D-Nev.) to ban the use of aircraft or motor vehicles for hunting wild horses or burros on public lands and to outlaw pollution of watering holes to trap the animals.

Reps. J. Carlton Loefer (D-Tenn.) and Alvin E. O'Konski (R-Wis.) have introduced the same bill. They concede their districts have no wild horses.

Rep. Merwin Coad (D-Iowa) backs a bill to prohibit capturing or killing wild horses for commercial use on public lands. He said this would take the profit out of the slaughter.

State Senate Approves 4 Nelson Tax, Fee Proposals

One Bill Raises College Tuition, Other Three Measures Would Bring in Increased Revenue

Madison —(AP)— The Republican-dominated state senate gave whopping approval Tuesday to four bills in Gov. Nelson's package proposal of tax and fee revisions.

The four measures, already passed by the assembly, now go to the governor's desk where their prompt enactment into law is expected.

Tuition Hike

One of the bills is designed to net an additional $592,000 a year by raising tuition in the nine state colleges. Resident tuition would be hiked $20 and out-state tuition $50 a year.

The other three relate to tax revision. A 6 per cent penalty on income tax statements which contain padded expenses would result from one of them. It would raise $350,000 in the biennium, but only 40 per cent of it would go to the general fund.

$40,000 More

Another would raise $40,000 by requiring corporations to list interest on state and federal tax refunds as income. The third would halt interest payments on state income tax refunds and bring in about $15,000 a year.

Nelson hopes his "stop gap" proposals would raise $12 million but joint finance committee rejection of a large share of the package indicates the bills are headed for rough sledding.

Mental Health

A bill that would permit the state building commission to spend up to $500,000 for construction of a treatment center in Madison for emotionally disturbed children was passed, 18-14.

The measure is the last of three major mental health bills to clear the senate. The others would create a mental health advisory board and develop a statewide program of mental health clinics.

Negro Leader Declares Racial Tension Shows Increase in New York

Statement Comes After Near-Riot Over Arrest of Harlem Woman

New York —(AP)— Race tension in Manhattan's dense Negro quarter—Harlem—is on the rise, a Negro leader says.

Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack—a Negro himself—reports that "the people of Harlem are in an angry mood, and the city's rise, a Negro leader says."

Jack made his comments after a stormy 2-hour meeting between city officials and Harlem leaders at city hall. The meeting resulted from a near-riot in Harlem Monday, in which two policemen were shot and a woman allegedly beaten by police.

Hits Mob Violence
 Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy assigned 88 extra police to the section where the incident took place. "We are not going to stand for mob violence anywhere in the city," he said.

Jack said the incident was an outgrowth of "rising racial tension" in Harlem. It was caused, he said, by residents' resentment over "inadequate housing, poor schools, unsanitary conditions and low-paying jobs."

"I am blaming no official and no administration," he added. "I say more has to be done to meet and work with the people on the community level, to make them feel as though they're part of the city."

Police Account

Police gave the following account of Monday's incident:

Investing a report of a woman throwing dishes in a restaurant, two white policemen arrested Mrs. Carmela Caviglione, 21, who is of Italian and Puerto Rican descent, but was first thought to be a Negro.

She resisted, but the policemen managed to get her into the police cruiser. They said she stepped on the gas, and the car hit an iron fence. An angry crowd of Negroes gathered, and there were rumors

UW to Open New Language Center

Madison —(AP)— A new Brazilian - Portuguese language center at the University of Wisconsin will open this fall in cooperation with the federal government's announcement Tuesday of a program for instruction in languages seldom taught in this country.

Fred H. Harrington, university vice president, said Wisconsin will probably be the only institution in the country to have a Brazilian - Portuguese center.

The program will provide instruction not only in the language but in the economic and cultural aspects of Brazil. Eighteen other language centers are also planned.

Police Wounded

One policeman stepped out, gun drawn, and a bystander tussled with him. The gun went off, wounding both policemen. Neither was seriously injured.

More police arrived, arrested the bystander and the woman, and the wounded police were taken to a hospital. A sullen crowd of 500 or more milled for three hours outside the station, as the rumor spread that the woman had been beaten. Middleweight boxing champion Sugar Ray Robinson, who runs a bar and grill nearby, tried to send the people home. They refused to go.

Senator Says Ike Hedges on Civil Rights

New York —(AP)— Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today that President Eisenhower should spell out his stand on the 5-year-old U. S. Supreme court ruling on school desegregation.

Humphrey also demanded that Vice President Richard M. Nixon take an active part in the battle to pass civil rights legislation in congress.

He criticized the administration, saying that its attitude is that "the only thing that matters is balancing the financial budget."

"I would suggest that once in a while this administration consider the importance of balancing our moral budget," Humphrey told the fiftieth annual convention of the National association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota and the state's other senator, Eugene J. McCarthy, yesterday tossed Humphrey's hat into the ring as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president.

Humphrey said congress has failed to take a single step to support the supreme court in its ruling on segregation.

He also urged the administration to appoint more Negroes to diplomatic posts. "We are wasting our greatest human resource in the diplomatic field — our Negro citizens," he said.

Sulphur Dioxide Gas Envelopes Area, Forces Evacuation of 300

Johnstown, N.Y. — (AP)— A cloud of sulphur dioxide gas escaped from a truck last night, enveloped an 8 - block area, and forced approximately 300 persons to evacuate their homes.

One person was hospitalized. Several others were treated and released.

A policeman said the gas "smelled like a real bad egg." Police said a rubber hose on a truck burst as it was delivering the gas to the Wells Chemical company.

The gas drifted over the surrounding area and formed pockets in houses. Fire engines and ambulances were called in to help with the evacuation.

Authorities said the gas was not explosive, but that the fumes were harmful if inhaled in large doses.

U. S. Actor Wrecks Yacht Off Australia

Darwin, Australia. — (AP)— American Actor - Magician John Calvert said today he had wrecked his yacht Sea Fox on Elecho island.

"The ship could be a total write-off," Calvert said. He said the accident occurred while he was trying to beach the yacht after making a trial run.

The Sea Fox was escorted to Elecho, off the north coast of Australia, for repairs after Calvert sent out a series of distress calls that the vessel was leaking and had engine trouble in the Arfurura sea.

Australian authorities said the rescue operation cost more than $7,000 and ordered the yacht not to sail again until proven seaworthy.

6 Union Men Indicted for Extortion

Said to Threaten Papers, Magazines With Work Stoppage

New York —(AP)— Six members of the Independent Newspaper and Mail Deliveries union have been indicted on conspiracy and extortion charges.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said they used threats of work stoppages to obtain $110,600 from 19 newspaper and magazine distributing companies from 1955 to 1957.

Four present or former officials of the union were among the six indicted yesterday.

The six were already under indictment on charges of violating antitrust and antiracketeering laws in connection with the wholesale distribution of newspapers and magazines in the metropolitan area.

The early indictments were federal charges, and yesterday's were state charges.

No charge was made against any newspaper or magazine publisher.

The six men were arrested yesterday. They had been free on bail, pending trial on the federal charges.

Those indicted are:

Irving Bitz, 56, Great Neck, N. Y., described by Hogan as a "nominal member" of the union and vice president of the Bronx County News company, and secretary-treasurer of the Bi-County News company, wholesale distributors, of Garden City, N. Y.

Sam Feldman, 40, Yonkers, N. Y., president of the union from May, 1956 until last May.

William Walsh, 59, Hazlet, N. J., business agent for the union from 1949 to 1956.

Angelo Lospinusio, 43, Richmond Hill, Queens, business agent for the union from 1951 to 1956.

War Secret

Program Reveals Ex-Kaiser Offered Asylum in England

London —(AP)— Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, who led the Germans in World war I, was offered asylum in Britain two days after Winston Churchill became prime minister in May, 1940.

Details of this wartime secret will be told in a London radio program about the Kaiser tonight.

Listeners will hear how the British government invited the Kaiser and his second wife, Princess Hermine, to fly to England aboard a royal air force plane and make their home here.

Telling the story will be Baron Van Nagell, who was burgomaster at Doorn, Holland, where the ex-kaiser was living in exile. The baron personally conveyed the invitation from the British legation and received the Kaiser's reply.

After talking over the offer with his wife, the Kaiser declined "with grateful thanks," saying his doctors had forbidden him to fly because of heart trouble. He died a year later.

The invitation was extended May 12, 1940. On May 10 Hitler had invaded Holland. The Chamberlain government had resigned, and Churchill had become Britain's leader.

Christopher Sykes, producer of the radio program, said he first learned of the offer when he read in some captured documents a report on day-to-day events by the ex-Kaiser's doctor.

Striking Steelworkers Still Going to Mill Bar

Not Prepared, Didn't Want Layoff, Some Say; No Cheers for McDonald

BY BEN DE FOREST

Pittsburgh —(AP)— Matesic's bar is just across Carson street from a gate of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation's south side works.

It is a mill bar. When shifts change, men coming off duty walk into the bar and have a shot and a beer or maybe two or three. It's a he-man drink, sometimes called a "Puddler" after one of the ruggedest jobs in a steel mill.

Early this morning with no exception. The steelworkers were there, talking about the steel strike that started at midnight.

There was no sorrow in Matesic's—at least not on the surface. But underlying all the conversation was the knowledge that every steelworker in the bar was off his job and without pay for an indefinite period.

Business Won't Last
 "Ninety-nine per cent of my business comes through that gate," said owner Mike Matesic, pointing across the street.

"The business looks good tonight, but this won't last. Tomorrow things will slack off. One day during the last strike (1956) I only took in about four dollars all day."

Across the street pickets were pacing near the gate.

"We're as united as we were in World War II," declared Capt. Ed Reber. "Everything we got we got through the union."

Another picket, Michael Leybick, a burner in the mill, said:

"The company is progressing in automation and taking a backward step in human relations."

Not Prepared
 Ed Ives, a rigger, also on the picket line, said:

"None of us is prepared for a long strike, but if necessary we'll stay out for months."

Bill Hoffman, a rigger: "I should be able to get together in two months time."

Another steelworker edged up to a newsmen:

"Don't use my name but I'll tell you something. Nobody here wanted a strike. Even if we get a 10 or 15 cent pay raise we'll never make it up."

"That's right," chimed in another. "We'd rather have a company-paid hospitalization plan and a good pension plan than a wage hike."

A newscast drew attention to the TV set in the bar. Dave McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, was on first and then R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator. Each stated the case for his side.

There were no cheers or applause.

Why the AMA Fears Compulsory Insurance

Some years ago an employe of a nearby newspaper, suffering from a disease which later proved fatal, decided to enter a state hospital for treatment. He chose this hospital because as a veteran he was entitled to special concessions in price for treatment there.

However, when he registered at the hospital he made some inquiries about the manner in which his case was to be handled. He was deathly afraid of surgery and was attempting to make sure that he would be in full control of the treatment at all times. He was interviewed by a doctor who was a very kindly person but who also was bound by the rules of the institution and the provisions under which veterans were to be treated there. After some discussion the doctor closed the interview with the statement that the prospective patient was presenting himself to the hospital for treatment under a special price granted to veterans and that he would therefore have to accept the treatment provided and abide by all the rules concerning it.

The prospective patient remained at the hospital overnight but left the next morning for home. He was fatally ill and died a few months later, but he was not so ill that he was willing to surrender control over the medical attention he was to receive.

We are always reminded of this experience when we read about proposed legislation which the authors claim will provide medical attention for all persons requiring it. Such bills usually provide that for a small payment to the government everyone in the nation will be furnished medical care throughout his lifetime. It is a very appealing thought. Many people reach for it eagerly, but others are opposed because they are familiar with government medicine such as our sick friend refused at the state hospital.

Right now there are hearings in Washington on the Forand bill. This is a proposal to increase Social Security taxes to permit the federal government to purchase certain health care services for Social Security beneficiaries.

Rep. A. J. Forand of Rhode Island is the author of the bill which is now being heard before the House Ways and Means Committee. Under this bill it is proposed that some 16 million persons eligible for Social Security benefits, largely those over 65 years of age, would be entitled to receive hospital, surgical and nursing home treatment under a government program. The estimates as to the cost of the bill run from $1 billion to $2 billion, which indicates that we do not know too much about it but it is quite certain that the cost will increase in the future as more people become eligible.

The American Medical association has prepared a series of 15 questions and answers intended to explain the operation of this bill. All of them are interesting but only a few will serve to show the AMA's attitude.

One of the questions is, who pays the bill? It will be paid by all those who pay Social Security taxes — and that means practically every employed person in the nation.

How would the bill affect the great majority of people who are not receiving Social Security payments? It would bring about overuse of hospitals by the Social Security claimants, including many who are suffering from illnesses not really requiring hospitalization. Thus it would limit the number of beds available to the acutely ill of all ages in all communities.

What effect would the Forand bill have on voluntary health insurance? The AMA thinks it would gradually replace it. Since most people would not be willing to carry both government and private insurance the private insurance would be dropped in many cases.

Would the Forand bill help our sick and indigent older citizens? The AMA says no. Most of the indigent are not covered by Social Security and hence would receive no help beyond what they are receiving now.

Furthermore the AMA thinks that if the Forand bill should be adopted it will later be expanded to include all segments of our population. This might be brought about by lowering the age of eligibility and broadening the field of coverage. Experience under the Social Security Act indicates that such increased benefits will be voted session after session by congress just as the Social Security act is now being broadened.

These are all valid criticisms of the proposal which should be considered carefully by all persons in the country, for they will all be affected by the measure. One of the most severe criticisms is that the cost would be so high before many years pass that it might jeopardize the retirement security of millions who depend on Social Security for their basic retirement needs. One thing it will certainly do is to reduce the paycheck of every person now under Social Security immediately to the extent of the increased tax. Another thing that it may do is to decrease the checks of those receiving Social Security, to make money available to pay not only the hospital and doctor bills of the sick but also to pay for a great army of bureaucrats to run the program.

There is also the fact that the conservation commission, which will command a budget of $26 millions for the next two years, can buy land for such purposes if it chooses to do so, and it has in fact done so when it has been persuaded that such purchases were justified. To suggest that the $165,000 transfer from the highway department will be a useful or even a significant start in the direction of a water access program borders on the absurd, when the beneficiary is a department that has a multimillion dollar fish and game fund dedicated to the welfare of the outdoorsman.

We feel entitled also to some skepticism about the statistical documentation for this program. Several years ago the conservation department got out a list of lakes which were technically without "public access" because they were surrounded by "private" lands. But the owners of these lands included many paper and lumber companies, virtually all of which invite public use and very few of which prohibit it.

We have no quarrel with the new access provision plan, as it stands. But we have some serious reservations about its importance and meaning. It will be a minute beginning, at best, and a tiny contribution in a field in which there is already sufficient law and sufficient public money if there is a sufficient public demand to justify their use.

The Governor Gets His Molehill

Assemblyman Risser of Madison, Gov. Nelson's spokesman in the Assembly, remarked recently as a legislative committee approved the transfer of $165,000 in highway funds to the conservation department to launch a program of providing public access to navigable waters:

"The governor campaigned on this and he wants it."

He does, indeed. There was little in the governor's campaign publicity that revolved as much like a keynote as his complaint that some of the navigable waters of the state are foreclosed to public use because they are surrounded by private ownership and do not have convenient public access. The campaign speeches brought responsive echoes from many of the urban sections of the state which have thousands of boat owners who believe they have a right to launch their craft on weekends and holidays.

There are elements in this situation, however, that have somehow been ignored. There is the fact, for example, that there is already plenty of statutory authority for the construction of roads to lakes and rivers. The authority is in the hands of town boards and county boards. The governor is saying by indirection that these agencies have not acted. We would guess that they have not acted for a very good reason — their local constituents are not enthusiastic about opening up their lakes to casual visitors and non-resident transients.

Forty Days of Rain?

Everyone knows about the ground hog legend — that if he sees his shadow on his day, Feb. 2, we just have to suffer six more weeks of winter whether we like it or not.

But how many of us realize that today is St. Swithin's day and, if it rains, we will have 40 more days of rainy weather?

This legend dates back 1,000 years to when St. Swithin, a bishop and tutor to King Egbert's son, Ethelwulf, died. He asked to be buried "where passersby might tread on my grave and where rain from above will fall on it."

When his body was exhumed for burial in a cathedral, 100 years later, it rained from the day of the ceremonies and for many days thereafter, according to the legend.

That's how it all started. If it rains on St. Swithin's day, July 15, it will rain for 40 days.

The legend does not say anything about having fair weather for 40 days if it doesn't rain.

Split Among Democrats Has A Twin in GOP

Republican leaders have been happily contending that the Democrats are split on policy. And there's no doubt that they are.

But it's somewhat like the elephant calling the donkey a 4-footed animal. So is the elephant, Thurston Morton, national Republican chairman, prepared to give a speech the other day in which he expressed opposition to right-to-work laws. Sen. Goldwater of Arizona, Republican senatorial campaign committee chairman, heard about it and urged Morton to delete the remarks. Goldwater wants the party to make a major campaign for right-to-work laws. Morton refused, and gave his speech in opposition.

Could he next year that the senate Republican campaign committee and the national committee will be voting against each other in the election races. There's a Democratic split, all right — and it has a twin brother in the Republican camp.

What Others are Saying

Farmer Isn't to Blame for That Increase in Food Prices

From Badger Briefs of Consolidated Badger Co-operative

Recently the Cappers Farmer carried a special report on agriculture. We believe it has valuable information which should be read by city people and rural people as it points out the real problem facing us. This is a very brief summary of the article. City people feel that the government is paying farmers not to produce and they are paying high food prices as a result. The farmer is singled out as the scoundrel because he is a long way from the super market and has no well integrated organization behind him to tell his story. Many newspaper stories and speeches are designed to point the finger at the farmer, to confuse the issue and take the focus off of the real issues.

Who's the Blame? Last year 60 cents out of every food dollar went to those who bought, handled, sold, processed, transported and packaged farm products. Less than 40 cents went to the farmer. In 1957 consumers spent 55 billion dollars for food and 27 billion of this went for marketing. Demand for convenience foods such as presliced meats, smaller units, better packaging etc., isn't free and it adds to the food bill.

From 1952 to 1957 farm prices decreased 20 per cent. Farm income estimated at $15.1 billion in 1952 slid to $10.8 billion last year. If farm prices had increased 25 per cent as other cost of living items have, food would cost us 25 cents more today than it does. During the time mentioned farmers actually subsidized consumers to the tune of $70 billion and while this was happening the farmers costs increased $3.7 billion. That is the price-cost squeeze in which the farmer finds himself and can do very little about.

What Makes Food Prices High In 1946 the average family food bill for a year was $767 out of which the farmer received $397. By 1957 the bill for the same amount of food was $1,010 out of which the farmer got $490. In 12 years the farmers share went up $3 while the marketing cost increased $240. The increase in spread was accounted for as follows: labor $296 up $130, transportation $73 up $33, other costs $178 up $69 and taxes added $4.

The Truth About Subsidies The federal government helps farmers but likewise airlines, petroleum industry, housing, shipping and so on.

Fast tax write offs save power companies billions of dollars. In the past 50 years for every $1,000 this country has spent for subsidies the farmer has received only $5.00. That is why it is so discouraging that metropolitan newspapers print only one side of the story and continuously remind the consumer who is getting the biggest bargain in food items that his food bill is large because he is being taxed to support prices to the farmer.

Swedish Students Like 6-Day School Week

From the Ottawa Citizen

Sweden's school children have a 6-day week and want to keep it. In a nation-wide referendum, preceded by radio and TV controversy, they voted 72.8 per cent against dropping the sixth day. The winning arguments were that pupils would have to work harder in the shorter week and holidays might be encroached upon.

Looking Backward

Church Conference, Turn Fest

79 YEARS AGO Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of July 17, 1880.

The Sunday School conference at Green Lake July 27th to 30th inclusive promises to be a big affair. The North Western railroad will run an extra train from Fond du Lac every day of the session on the arrival of the morning train from Appleton.

The State Turn Fest will be held in Oshkosh on the 20th, 21st, 22nd and 23rd of August. About 1,000 Turners will be present besides a large number of other visitors. It is understood that a special train will run from Appleton at excursion rates.

25 YEARS AGO Wednesday, July 11, 1934 Four members of Oney

Johnston post of the American Legion attended a meeting at Kewaunee at which National Commander Edward Hayes, Chicago, was principal speaker. They were Armin B. Scheurle, post commander, E m e r y Grcunke, commander-elect, A. H. Bunks, a past commander, and D'Arcy McGee, adjutant.

Several young people of First Congregational church took part in the annual conference at Green Lake. Delegates included Ruth Lutz, who served on the student council; Lester Schmidt, group leader and in charge of the orchestra at the banquet; Gordon Watts, banquet speaker; Mildred Letts, Ruth Lutz and Mary Reineck. Appleton delegates named to attend the state Moose convention at Neillsville included William Eschner, Adrian Gerrits, E. E. Cahail and Earl W. Bates from the Appleton lodge and Mrs. Frances Kemp from the Women, i the Moose. Mrs. L. M. Schindler and Mrs. C. E. Murdock were in charge of the Pythian Sisters' picnic the previous day at the Fred Schintz cottage on Lake Winnebago.

10 YEARS AGO Wednesday, July 13, 1949

Judy Manier won the girls' jacks contest at Edison school playground. Helen Hoffmann was master of ceremonies at an amateur show at Pierce park playground. Winners of the event were Jimmy and Tommy Volmer.

Monroe Brown was seated as New London Rotary club president that week at a dinner meeting at Elwood hotel.

J. B. Millar was named a member of the advisory board of the Neenah YWCA to fill the unexpired term of Adam C. Remley, who resigned to accept an appointment to the budget committee of the Community Chest. Wesley F. Smith, formerly of Green Bay, was appointed head of the Appleton area office of the internal revenue department.

William DeLain and William Donovan were named co-chairmen of the picnic of the Fox River Valley Red Arrow club. Members of the 32nd division organization and their families were to attend the outing at Telulah park.

Both Sides Overstate Cases on Tax Problems

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — In the heat of partisan competition there is always a strong temptation for the politicians to overplay their hands and to overstate their cases.

Some Democrats may now be reflecting about their own record in this regard as they contemplate the taunts of the Republicans about the tidy "surplus" of $16,000,000 bequeathed to the Democratic administration.

The purpose of the publicity campaign is to remind the voter that the Democratic claims about a statehouse financial crisis and untidy bookkeeping under the Republican regimes were false, and to capitalize the inevitability that the Democrats will either incur a painful deficit or be required to levy onerous additional taxation.

All this is normal enough, and as is again normal, the precise truth lies somewhere between the bitter claims of the antagonists.

HOW IT GOES

To the extent that the Democrats in the last campaign had to deal, perforce, with the official budget bureau estimates of the state's financial condition, which in turn were extremely cautious, they were perhaps justified in making an issue of the GOP finance stewardship.

To the extent that the Republicans rearranged some of their appropriations in extraordinary ways and jugged some of the miscellaneous fund balances around the capitol in order to improve the appearance of their ledgers, the Democrats were perhaps to be excused when they scoffed.

But it is now evident that the Democrats overstated their case. It is now on the record, and incontrovertible, that the last Republican administration paid all of its bills, managed to avoid increasing taxes, and left a balance on hand for the succeeding Democrats that is a handsome one comparatively.

It is not enough to say that this was partly luck. Issues involve facts. The fact is that the Republicans managed through a difficult period, to the confusion of the skeptics.

On the other hand, the Republicans tend to oversimplify, if not to distort, when they suggest that the Democratic deficits and tax increases can be fairly compared with their own record of two years earlier.

The Democrats face some higher costs that cannot be avoided — or, at the least, that no party would avoid if in power. It is worth a second glance, too, that the Republicans didn't significantly try to cut down state expenditures this year. On some occasions they were in the vanguard of drives to increase appropriations.

It is fair to note also that the budget bureau estimates on the size of deficits impending are made by the same men who were wrong on the conservative side when they worked for the Republicans. Thus the picture is likely to be somewhat more cheerful than the raw calculations on the record now suggest.

THE CONCLUSION

The worried taxpayer who wends his way through this morass of partisan accusation and counter-charge is likely to react according to his own partisan tastes. There is really little to choose between the contending propagandists.

The record on the whole tends to suggest that Republicans as a group are somewhat less prone to expenditure, and somewhat more responsive to the taxpayer, if only as a voting force.

But the fact is that neither party is really prepared to stem the tide of rising governmental disbursements and the inextricably associated trend for higher taxation. The parties react according to their circumstances of the moment. Republicans can now afford to taunt and challenge and ridicule, as the Democrats did so cheerfully, persistently and with apparent effect in earlier years.

The situation is a good deal like a couple of quarrelling little boys on the village square. One makes an accusation, and the other sniffs in his rage: "You're another . . ."

What Others are Saying

Arms Disagreement May Harm Israel

From The Miami Herald

Premier David Ben-Gurion, the architect and sword of Israel, won grudging and narrow approval of the Knesset (parliament) for his deal to sell arms to West Germany.

But two of the groups in his 4-party coalition which has ruled Israel for 3½ years registered their disapproval and the man who has been Israel's leading spirit since the young nation was created is expected to resign eventually.

The issues that resulted in an uncertain future for this great proponent of Zionism are remarkable.

In its sore need for foreign exchange, Israel set up an arms industry. It has been selling weapons to any available buyer outside the communist orbit.

Several NATO nations have been purchasers, arousing no untoward comment.

When, however, it became known last week that Ben-Gurion's government had contracted to sell 250,000 grenade launchers to West Germany, a crisis developed.

The Knesset debated the issue, angrily and emotionally. The communists demanded the premier's resignation. Most of the debate revolved around memories of Nazi Germany.

During the Hitler era 6-million Jews perished in the concentration camps and gas chambers. A tragedy of this magnitude is not soon forgotten.

Indeed, Israel is receiving millions of dollars in reparations from West Germany for the misdeeds of the wartime regime.

Israeli newspapers almost unanimously were critical of the arms agreement with the heirs of the former enemy. Haaretz, one of the most influential, commented:

"We must ask if the hour is really ripe, 14 years after the end of the second world war, for the Zionist Jewish state of Israel to appear before the world as a friend of a German state."

Public opinion in Israel seems to say no. That answer may well remove Ben-Gurion from his position of leadership.

It would be a sad and serious loss. A dedicated man who has fought for a Jewish homeland for half a century, a statesman of power and persuasion. Ben-Gurion would leave a gap almost impossible to fill.

A review of a biography which appeared recently in the Herald aptly summed up the contributions of this man:

"David Ben-Gurion reared the walls (of Israel) and still stands with gun in hand to defend the nation which he and his people have created."

Making Senate Salaries Public Is Welcome Idea

From the Boston Daily Globe

The unanimous recommendation of the rules committee of the United States senate that salaries of all employees of that august body, from vice president down to doorkeeper, be published quarterly, is a welcome proposal. By adopting it, the senate would be returning to its own older practice, which was unwisely abandoned about a decade ago.

The house has recognized consistently the right of the public to know who is on its public payroll and how much each receives. Such publicity is one of the safeguards against one of the ancient foes of sound government — nepotism, or the over-liberal hiring of relatives.

Both houses of congress should pursue this mood of publicity further by requiring public reports on congressional junketing abroad each year. That would aid the taxpayer to identify trips actually in the public interest and those undertaken solely as vacation journeys at public expense.

Government Claims Land For Recreation Project

Blythe, Calif.—“Squatters, get off the federal government's land!”

Sound as if it was lifted from a page of old west history or fiction?

It wasn't. It's an official ultimatum to farmers along the sandy banks of the Colorado river.

The department of interior has ordered some 150 farmers cultivating 27,000 acres of rich land between Hoover dam and the Mexican border to get out.

The department says the farmers have no business there, and it wants to develop a recreation area along the river which forms the boundary between Arizona and California.

After all, they contend, their money and efforts have turned unused, brush-covered land into productive farms which enhance the economy of the area.

The land was withdrawn from public entry by the department of interior in 1902.

As the rampaging Colorado river burst its banks in flood periodically, it changed its course, leaving islands and shoreline high and dry. Then, with the building of Hoover, Davis and Parker dams, the river's flow was regulated and more loamy land was exposed.

In what might be the biggest land fight since frontier days, the government is trying to oust squatter families who have spent years — some nearly half a century — turning brush jungles into valuable farms. Here's what the squatters' squabble in California and Arizona is all about.

Pioneers like William Y. Murphey, now president of the Associated Farmers, moved in and started clearing the land of a jungle of salt cedars and willows. Murphey has been on the land 46 years.

The land's richness has attracted in recent years big-scale farmers who raise cotton, alfalfa, cantaloupes and watermelons.

The disputed land includes about 10,000 acres in the Yuma, Ariz., area; 10,000 acres in the Palo Verde valley of California; 4,000 acres in the Parker, Ariz.-Needles, Calif., Calif. region; and 3,000 acres in the Cibola valley of Arizona.

Many of the farmers who have transformed the brush jungles into verdant farms operate on what is known as “The Island” — a 4,000-acre piece of former river bottom near Yuma. More land has been reclaimed south of Yuma.

Told to Vacate

J. F. Power went in and cleared land in 1913. The department of interior has given him an eviction notice.

There is Earl Harp, 69, who has farmed government land on the island for 30 years. His son, Paul, 25, was born there and so was Paul's daughter, Patsy Lorraine, 4.

“I don't understand why the government wants us to leave. People will help us.”

And there is Ken Easterday, 38, a World war II veteran. He carved out a cotton and alfalfa farm and established a cattle-feeding yard. He wants to keep the land so his three sons can farm it after him.

Where do these farmers stand in their claim to the land?

The squatters contend that they hold the farmlands now by virtue of historic customs and laws by which much of the American frontier was settled.

City Old Laws

They cite the pre-emption act of 1841, the homestead act of 1862 and custom, even though these may not apply in their case.

Luke Walker, secretary-treasurer of the Associated Farmers, says:

“The courts have held that settlers who made improvements upon the public lands of the United States, who are commonly referred to as ‘squatters,’ are not considered trespassers, but to the contrary are encouraged by the public policy of the United States to put land to cultivation and use.”

In another squatter's group are 970 persons who have settled on river-front land some 200 feet deep and 50 miles long between Blythe and Parker dam.

They have invested an estimated $2 million in construction of resorts and camps, and more in individual homes.

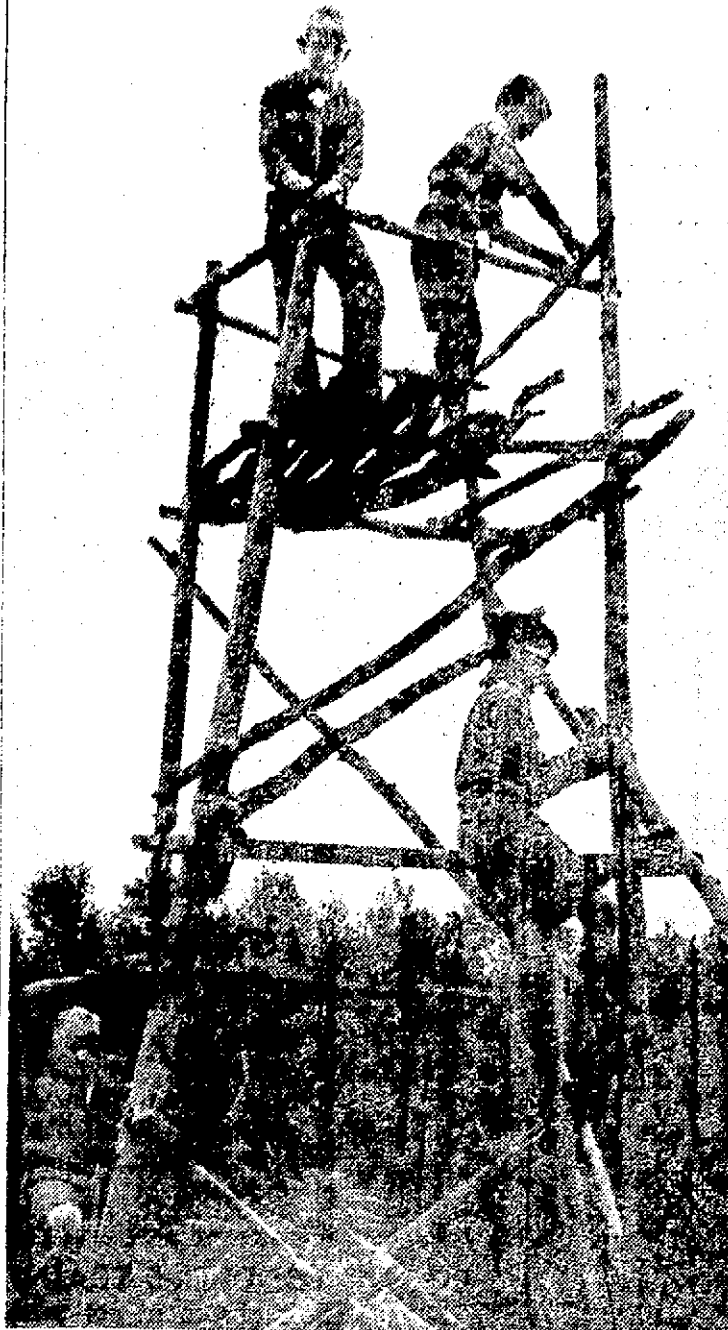

They have building permits from the California counties of San Bernardino, Riverside and Imperial, and pay taxes on their improvements.

The resort and camp operators have formed an organization to try to point out to the department of interior that private enterprise can and is operating recreational facilities better than the federal government could.

They ask:

“If the government runs us off the land, who will pay for the buildings we have constructed?”

“Does Sec. of Interior Eaton want the taxpayers to bear

the burden of reimbursement will be settled in the courts as well as court costs.” —perhaps after many years

This land war may be remnant of litigation—instead of with innocent of the old west. But it bullets.

'Walking Pneumonia' Degree Of Disease, Says Doctor

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

“Dear Dr. Molner: I wrote you some time ago, asking if there is such a thing as ‘walking pneumonia.’ I have watched the paper carefully for a reply, but thus far there has been none.—B.R.”

Well, yes. But you'll have to let me do my best to choose such topics as seem to have more general interest. It is, as a matter of fact, rather rare than I ever use a letter without having in my file some other questions similar to it, or related to it in some way.

Since your other inquiry, I have noted others along the same line, and writers of these other letters will find answers included in my answer to you.

Yes, there's such a thing as “walking pneumonia,” but I wouldn't want you to think it is some special type of pneumonia. It is a phrase used to describe the degree of the disease.

What, after all, is pneumonia? It is an inflammation of the lung. In a sense, you might reasonably say that we might just as well have some special term meaning “sore finger,” in which the soreness might come because of inflammation stemming from any number of causes: bacteria, or viruses, setting up infection; some injury to the finger; some chemical irritant, etc.

There are several types and varieties of organisms which, if they get a chance, can cause pneumonia. Some irritants which are inhaled can cause pneumonia. Again, weakness from some entirely different disease may set the stage—or extreme old age.

In any case, we lump the resulting inflammation of the lung into the broad term of pneumonia. Lobar pneumonia means the lobe of a lung is the site. The other lung may (or may not) be clear. Bifurcated pneumonia means both lungs are involved. There are all sorts of variations which may or may not have special names.

Terms Not Exact

“Walking pneumonia” is a term which has been used for a long time, and probably is gradually losing its popularity because it isn't very exact. It means, simply, that the patient has pneumonia but is still on his feet, walking around. The case may be so mild that the patient doesn't notice any symptoms. Or he may have some symptoms but ignores them.

A person with “walking pneumonia” may recover, still on his feet, or his attack may become worse. If he becomes sick enough to go to bed, or to be put to bed, I suppose you'd have to say that the “walking pneumonia” becomes pneumonia at that moment.

The same applies to some other diseases. “Walking consumption” is a term that has been used for a victim of TB who was not yet known to be ill. “Walking typhoid” refers to a carrier of the disease who is not obviously ill. The psychiatrists use the term “walking schizophrenic” for a person who still manages to get along in society in spite of the mental illness known as schizophrenia.

And, of course, in any of these, the sooner the patient gets treatment, the better.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet “The Way To Stop Constipation.” For a copy write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Seymour Man Elected Head Of 3 Families

Emil Raether, Seymour, was elected president of the Butzlaff, Ruechel and Raether families at the fifth annual reunion Sunday at South park, Oshkosh.

Other new officers are Mrs. William E. Ruechel, Shawano, secretary, and Frank Ruechel, Oshkosh, treasurer.

Four births and one death were reported in the families. Mrs. Gusta Ruechel, De Pere, was the oldest member present, and the Robert Kelly family, Blacksburg, W. Va., came the longest distance.

Family members also came from Charleston and Danville, Ill., Bay City, Mich., and Lake Tomahawk, Pulaski, Appleton, Ripon, Neenah, Oshkosh and Van Dyne.

The reunion next year will be at Rock Ledge park, Seymour, the first Sunday in August. Mrs. John Moeller, Pulaski, will be in charge of arrangements, and George, Harold and Edward Butzlaff, Jr., Oshkosh, will have charge of entertainment.

Coroner's Trip Approved by 1-Vote Margin

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps can go to the annual coroners training seminar at Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 18 through Aug. 22, the decided by one vote Tuesday. The board limited county payment of his expenses to $125. The board heard Hortonia Supv. Gerhard Rulsam, chairman of the courts and administration of justice committee which has jurisdiction over Kemps, object to the trip and Appleton Supv. Arthur Hoolihan, a member of the committee, back it. "He shouldn't go, we never allowed it before," said Rulsam. "Why discriminate against him when we let the sheriff go to a conference at Milwaukee and the county judge to one at Salt Lake City, Utah?" asked Hoolihan. The vote was 26 to 25, with four supervisors absent. Supvs. Desmond Schade and Henry Wichman, both of Appleton, changed their votes to favor the trip after completion of the roll call.

Lawrence Says: U. S. Economic Issues Involved in Steel Strike

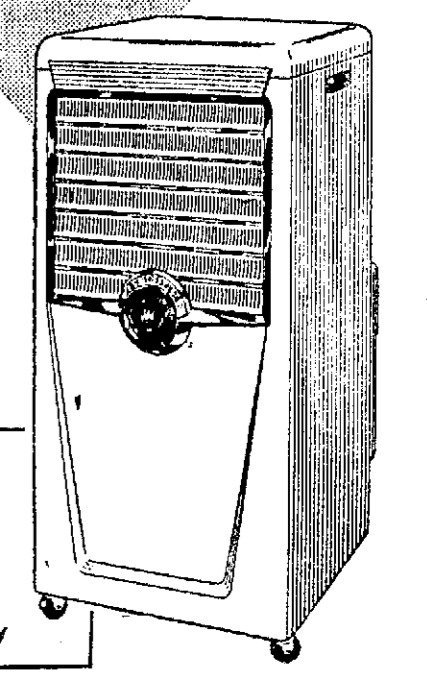

Dilemma Won't be Solved by Simply Increasing Wages
BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Issues that affect the economic situation of the whole country are involved in the controversy between the unions and the steel industry. The nation faces a dilemma that will hardly be solved simply by an increase in wages. There is a deeper question to be settled — whether the steel industry can secure a revision of existing working agreements negotiated in the past. The purpose is to obtain greater efficiency and pave the way for more compensation to employees generally without the necessity of an increase in prices to the public. Faced by competition from foreign countries where wages are much lower, the steel companies of America, as well as many other concerns in this country, are finding that they are pricing themselves out of world markets. American exports have been dropping, and American capital has gone abroad to build factories employing Europeans while employees in this country are deprived of jobs. Add Up to Crisis The whole thing adds up to a crisis which has long been foreseen as inevitable but which the management side has not been willing to meet squarely in the arena of negotiation. Once an agreement has been made under "collective bargaining," it has been considered as permanent and never subject to reopening. The steel industry, however, has been compelled this time to reopen the existing agreements and, if "bargaining" means the give-and-take of negotiations, then the retention of old clauses and provisions is as much subject to debate as are new wage rates. The steel industry today insists that some of the working rules impede progress. Thus, for instance, if an employer wants to change the nature of an operation to increase production, yet requiring fewer workmen, he can do so only after going through a long-draw-out grievance procedure. Company Revisions If the steel companies, therefore, can bring about fundamental revisions in existing contract provisions, they might see their way to making increases in wages based on savings derived from an enlarged production and an improved efficiency. The situation is very much the same throughout American industry. Collective bargaining has heretofore been regarded as a 1-way street. Management has given in repeatedly, and the nation is today in the midst of a dangerous inflation due to higher prices brought on by higher wage costs. Now, with export trade fallen off and American ships trying to make ends meet with diminished cargoes — something that is causing widespread concern — American producing companies have been aroused by the sudden flow of foreign-made products into the markets of this country. Watching Executives Everybody in business is watching the steel industry executives to see if they will stand their ground and put an end to the annual round of wage increases which unions have demanded no matter what the economic consequences. The impression prevails that the steel men are going to stand firmly, for the very good reason that they have no choice. While desperate efforts have been made this week by union leaders to avoid a strike by postponing for a year settling the issue of working conditions in existing contracts, there is reason to believe the union leaders have all along thought management was bluffing. Unfortunately, the nation now must pay a high price for this miscalculation — an interruption in steel production. For this is not a strike brought on merely by a difference of opinion on a wage scale. It goes to the heart of the struggle to ward off inflationary prices that come when organized greed is not content with adequate or even unprecedented wage scales but must force the management side to pay "all that the traffic will bear." This is but another way of saying that the patience of the consumer must be exhausted before there will be an admission of error on the part of those who are forcing prices up through higher and higher labor costs. To them, the word "efficiency" seems to have become obsolete, and collective bargaining has become collective bludgeoning. (Copyright, 1959)

Steel Plants Closed
In Nationwide Strike

ed over the potential effects of the strike. Director Joseph Finnegan of the federal mediation and conciliation service arranged separate meetings this afternoon in New York with representatives of the industry and union.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said he would offer industry negotiators an undisclosed plan for settlement of the strike.

Expects Rejection

"But I guess they'll turn it down," McDonald added in a talk to some 2,000 cheering union members at U. S. Steel Corporation's Fairless works near Morrisville, Pa., last night.

Promptly at midnight — and in some instances before — workers streamed in orderly fashion from mills across the country. Picket lines were set up quickly.

Major steel-making facilities had been halted in anticipation of the strike and the final shutdowns came without incident. The companies, too, had made their preparations.

Men at the mills greeted the strike with mixed emotions. Some left their jobs reluctantly; some militantly.

"We don't figure to give up what we've fought 20 years for," said Elmer Getty, a machinist at the Pittsburgh works of Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation. A fellow worker, Joe Liptak, said: "I hope it don't last. I want to work. I don't want to stay home."

No Early U.S. Action

It could be a long strike, judging from the adamant positions of union and management.

President Eisenhower said today present conditions do not warrant invoking the Taft-Hartley law in an effort to end the steel strike.

At a news conference, Eisenhower declined to speculate on when steel stockpiles might be reduced to a point which would imperil national defense.

The Taft-Hartley law permits the government to seek a court order to end any work stoppage which the president finds is a threat to national security.

Eisenhower again expressed hope that free bargaining between the steel companies and the union will result quickly in a new contract.

Dispute in Brief

The dispute, in a nutshell, is this: The union contends productivity and industry profits justify increased wages and benefits.

The industry says any boost in labor costs would be inflationary; it must, in fact, institute economy measures.

Effects of the strike were felt immediately in other segments of the economy. Many thousands of workers, mostly in the coal, railroad, ore mining and Great Lakes shipping industries, have been laid off or will be soon.

It's not expected that steel users, who have been stockpiling supplies for months, will feel any shortage immediately. Industry sources say the booming demand for steel has cut deeply into stockpiling plans. There is less steel available than many users would need to carry through a strike of major duration.

However, the auto industry, steel's biggest customer, is in position to go 60 days or more without particular difficulty.

Costly to All

Value of production lost by the strike in the steel industry alone is estimated at some $300 million a week. Loss in wages and other benefits to steelworkers is calculated at about $70 million weekly.

Each side sternly accused the other of precipitating the strike.

McDonald had proposed a one, two or three-year contract granting a 15-cent hourly package pay increase annually. This was the settlement in a 3-year pact in 1956 which ended a 34-day strike.

The industry rejected the proposal outright. Instead, management negotiators sought continuation of present wages and benefits, plus changes to give the industry more leeway in promoting economies. The union angrily turned down this counter-proposal.

Court Backs Dixon-Yates

L. Strauss, called for a $107 million power plant at West Memphis, Ark.

President Eisenhower had ordered the contract signed in 1954.

Power generated by a Dixon-Yates firm, Mississippi Valley Generating company, was to be supplied by the Tennessee Valley Authority system to compensate for electricity TVA fed into atomic energy commission plants.

Congress Fight

Mississippi Valley had been set up by Middle South Utilities, Inc., headed by Edgar H. Dixon, and the Southern company, headed by Eugene A. Yates.

The contract stirred up a battle in congress over charges that private power was usurping a public power area.

Eisenhower ordered the contract cancelled in 1955.

At the time the city of Memphis, Tenn., decided to build a power plant of its own rather than take power from the Dixon-Yates plant.

The Dixon-Yates plant was to have been built at West Memphis, Ark.

Joining Judge Madden in holding that Wenzell played no role of conflicting interests were Judge Don Laramore of the court of claims, and U.S. Dist. Judge Albert B. Bryan of Alexandria, Va. Bryan was especially assigned to sit with the court to hear the case.

Chief Judge Marvin Jones and retired Justice Stanley F. Reed of the supreme court, who also was assigned especially to hear the case, dissented.

Jail Man Suspected Of Slaying Seven in Family After Escape

Edmonton, Alberta — Stocky Robert Raymond Cook suspected of slaying seven members of his family, was jailed today under heavy guard after making one escape that led police on a 4-day hunt across southern Alberta.

The 22-year-old fugitive gave up without a fight yesterday to police who tracked him to a farm in Bashaw, 70 miles south of Edmonton.

Cook walked from behind a barn into the waiting arms of police who were still talking to the farmer, Norman Dufva.

He was unarmed and put up no resistance. He was wearing the same striped pajamas — but under stolen trousers — that he had on when he broke out of Ponoka Mental hospital through a meshed window last Friday night.

Cook was first arrested and sent to the hospital after the bodies of his father, stepmother and their five children were found in a pit in the family garage June 27. They had been shot or clubbed to death.

Cook, a mechanic, had been released from Prince Albert penitentiary only a few days before after serving three years for stealing an automobile.

Fire Fighters Put Out
Forest Blaze in Utah

Kanosh, Utah — Fire fighters extinguished a 1,000-acre forest fire in south-central Utah yesterday, about 24 hours after it started. About 240 men were used.

The forest service said 1,100 acres were burned in the Fish department's spending for capital outlays. The total department budget is nearly $14 million for the biennium.

Lake National forest, 2½ miles southeast of Kanosh. It started when wind blew flames into the juniper timber from a sage brush fire on private land.

A bill to permit use of highway funds for construction and maintenance of county forest roads was slashed by the assembly, 51-43. Money set aside for state forest and park roads would have been tapped under the proposal.

Paul Alfonso, R - Minocqua, who led forces for the bill, said county forest roads could be built for as little as $250 a mile. Objectors to the plan said it is a matter county boards must iron out.

Favor Inquiry

A joint resolution calling on Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds to probe the automotive parts and supplies industry for possible unfair trade practices was adopted, 48-45. The measure needs senate concurrence.

The assembly killed bills that would have:

Prohibited smoking on school premises unless specifically authorized by a local board.

Prevented employers from blocking employees who desire to run for public office. It called for fines up to $200 and jail terms up to six months for violators.

Senate-passed bills concurred in by the assembly would:

Permit capturing or killing bears doing damage to farm lands.

Make motor vehicle learners' permits good for six months instead of 60 days.

Auto Firms
Ready for Steel Strike

Manufacturers Say
They Can Survive
3-Month Walkout

Detroit — Auto manufacturers will be able to survive a 60 to 90 day steel strike with no particular strain. At least one of them can go on longer than that.

The auto industry normally absorbs about 15 to 20 per cent of the total steel production.

All of the automakers have vast steel stockpiles, plus about one million 1959 models already built and ready for sale.

Big Inventory

This inventory of new cars should last the best part of 60 days, even if no more 1959 models are built. And such a spread would carry the dealers very close to the introduction dates for 1960 models.

Long range plans call for all Chrysler corporation production of 1959 models to end by early August and for General Motors production to end during August. Ford division has planned to run until early September with other Ford motor company production shutting down in August.

Least Affected

Ford will be the least affected by the strike since it normally makes about 50 per cent of its steel at its Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn. This plant is ranked 13th among all U. S. steel plants in capacity and can make 1,898,600 tons of ingots in a year.

Workers in the Ford steel operation, all members of the United Auto Workers union, were not affected by the strike.

The other automakers have accumulated enough steel for their big initial runs of 1960 models.

The new cars are expected to be in dealer showrooms starting in early October.

Hobby Becomes Business for Green Bay Stamp Collector

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

House
Such a collector is Ernest Moore, Green Bay. Moore now 42, was once one of the annual throng. He collected stamps from the time he was seven until he reached 15. Lacking an album, he pasted his collection in notebooks. His was a typical effort. Hundreds of thousands of children do precisely the same thing.

Typical Effort

Although Moore does not remember what happened to that first collection he now knows that when his enthusiasm died he was conforming to it to an international pattern. If a person enters, drops, re-enters, drops, and then re-enters the hobby he will be a good stamp collector. It happens that way virtually every time, he says.

Moore, who entered the field of stamp collecting for the third time a few years after his marriage, now qualifies as one of the 35 million "permanent ones." His own private collection in which he has invested about $10,000 would bring about $60,000 if sold carefully.

Moore's collection exploded into a dealership and now, as an adjunct to his television service store and shop. He is one of the liveliest dealers in Wisconsin. With some 15 million stamps for sale which range from the basic two cents to $800 per stamp, Moore can be said to be "in business."

A likable, dark-eyed fellow, he is good with kids. Mainly, he thinks, it is because it was a dealer who guided him into the hobby in the proper way—by teaching him a goal and suggesting an ultimate specialty. He learned from a now-retired Mr. Cook of the Appleton stamp shop, in Appleton.

Good Album

The Cook wisdom bounces readily from Moore to today's generation of children. "A good album makes a difference," he said. "Children get discouraged when they have no place to paste their stamps properly in their books."

"Also, children should enter the hobby in a general way. They can learn many, many things from stamps. They can learn the kind of money used in all the foreign countries, trees, birds, animals, people, languages, industries, geography, wars, history—just about everything."

"Nobody," he said, "can manage to obtain a complete collection of every stamp from every country. One U. S. army colonel attempted to and spent millions in the process—but failed. Nevertheless, children get educational value from stamp collecting which they could learn nowhere else as easily."

Moore thinks that everybody should learn something about stamps.

Stamps Destroyed

Not long ago a woman in Wisconsin burned a bushel of old letters from her attic. One was enough to convince its rescuer that the misguided lady had destroyed $100,000 world of old postmaster provisional letters.

"Take these two stamps," Moore said, showing a double 1945 Vatican stamp with a picture of Pope Pius XII. "There is no perforation between them. The average person would simply snip them apart, yet—because of a mechanical failure to perforate between the stamps—this pair is worth $80."

"Another time," he said, "somebody noticed a sheet of air mail stamps which had a picture of an airplane upside down. He bought the sheet which—if it were still whole—would be worth $325,000. The cost to him was just $12."

'Treasure Hunt'

Generally no collector can expect to get rich quick, Moore thinks. It is the wise purchase and the holding for a value to increase which makes stamp collecting a good investment as well as a fine hobby. Kids should forget the value when they begin, and collect for fun.

Nevertheless, Moore thinks, anybody can "treasure hunt." He pointed to a $1 presidential issue which is worth $12 simply because the stamp contains a watermark. Another—a 3-cent U.S. victory stamp—is worth $4 because of a color error. His stamp was printed with the wrong shade of purple ink.

Moore is the son of the late Ernest Moore, Sr., formerly supervisor of music for public school systems in Appleton. Moore, Sr., died last January at 71.

Moore has good reason to be enthusiastic over hobbies. Now a successful television engineer as well as a distinguished stamp collector and dealer, both of these facets of his life's work began with fun—as a hobby.

Loggers Get Jobless Aid

Compensation Law Revised to Add All Lumbermen

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Twenty-five years after this state pioneered in a job insurance program, the lumberjack has been brought under the unemployment compensation law.

With scarcely a word of argument, legislators have enacted and Gov. Nelson has approved a bill that makes about 70 employers of loggers subject to unemployment compensation tax and their employees eligible for benefits.

The action symbolizes the changed nature of employment in the woods. Originally such men were exempt from the program because their employment was highly seasonal. With new equipment now woods operations continue the year around.

Another factor inducing coverage was that employers were subject to federal withholding tax on their payrolls although employees were not subject to benefits. The enactment, therefore, gives some benefits to employees without additional costs to their employers.

The elimination of the logger exemption leaves agricultural workers the principal group not covered. There has been no attempt to extend the act to farming, however.

Suggest Passing State Budget For Conservation

Madison—The Wisconsin legislature's joint finance committee recommended passage Tuesday of the state conservation department's $271 million budget.

The vote was 9 to 2 with three members absent. The negative votes were cast by Republican Sens. Kirby Hendee of Milwaukee and Chester Dempsey of Hartland.

The bill calling for the outlay was given a hearing Monday. The newest feature in the budget proposal is an accelerated plan to develop public access to Wisconsin lakes and streams. The proposal is

Cardinal, Aided by Buben, to Write Anti-Red Pamphlet

Hartford, Conn.—(AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston and one-time Communist editor Louis Budenz of the Daily Worker are teaming up to write a catechism-like pamphlet exposing the "intrinsic evil of communism."

Cardinal Cushing, in a talk at Wethersfield, said "we are up against an international conspiracy" in communism and that "all who believe in God—Catholics, Protestants and Jews—must get together to fight it, otherwise the whole crowd of us are sunk."

He explained that one way he proposed to fight communism is through a catechetical pamphlet aimed at high school readers to reveal the true nature of communism and its dangers.

He said Budenz, now a Roman Catholic convert living in New York City, "helps me check the accuracy of the information" in the pamphlet. The cardinal said he and Budenz expect to have a textbook on communism ready for college level students about a year after the pamphlet is finished.

Ditching Ravine Approved by City, Township

Work Expected to Solve Drainage, Weed Problems

Kaukauna — Members of the common council, the board of the town of Buchanan and property owners in the vicinity of a ravine running along Fifteenth street, Hendricks avenue and into the township have agreed for the need of a ditch to drain off stagnant pools of water in the area.

Some property owners objected to proposed ditching and others were not present for the meeting but the majority favored the idea. An effort will be made to contact all persons whose property might be affected prior to the ditching program.

A ditch, about six feet wide, will be dug along the route of the ravine running adjacent to Hendricks and Fifteenth, past the Kaukauna Community hospital and Oakridge avenue extended until it drains into Konkopot creek which in turn runs into the Fox river.

Share Cost of Work

The city and township will split the cost of the ditching, each paying a proportionate share. It is hoped the ditch will clean up stagnant pools and marsh grass growing in shallow spots along the area. Work on the ditching will start within a few weeks.

In other action, the finance committee met and voted to recommend to the council the dedication of city owned land for extension of Thilmansy road near the sewage plant for public road purposes. Dedication of a 42-foot strip would make it possible to connect an existing road with a road running behind the lower mill at Thilmansy.

Mayor to Head Board of Review

Kaukauna — Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon was elected chairman of the board of review at its initial session Monday with Fred Reichel, fifth ward alderman, as vice chairman.

The board will meet Monday through Friday from 9 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 4 p. m. in an effort to complete the roll by July 24.

School Board Accepts Bid on Blacktopping

Study Undertaken For Projects at Two Grade Schools

Kaukauna — The board of education Tuesday accepted the low bid of Badger Highway for blacktopping school grounds at Park and Nicolet schools. The cost of the work amounting to $22,013.

This is $2,013 more than the city council appropriated for the project but school board members felt it was more feasible to carry out both projects in full rather than leave a strip of play area unpaved until additional funds could be appropriated. Work is expected to get underway within a few days, thus making it possible to complete the job prior to the start of school.

New State Agency Major Nelson Coup

Economic Resource Development
Democratic Reorganization Bill

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The usually solid Republican majority in the Wisconsin state senate broke late Tuesday to permit Gov. Gaylord Nelson to score the most satisfying victory of his gubernatorial career to date — establishment of a new state agency.

With the strategic assistance of five Republicans, senate Democrats put over the second major Nelson administrative reorganization bill and the one that he favored over most of his key legislative objectives of the year.

The measure previously endorsed by the Democratically controlled lower house will set up a new state department of economic resource development by combining existing state agencies.

Two Services

The principal services to be joined are the state division of industrial development, now headed by David Carley, a Nelson appointee, and the state planning division, commanded by Henry M. Ford, a career civil servant.

Although the bill is relatively innocuous in its provisions, Democrats and Republicans alike recognized its political and publicity potential because of the resounding rhetoric it contained and the promise of economic succor to some of the distressed regions of the Wisconsin northland.

The language stressing the need for economic planning assistance to northern counties obviously accounted for votes of Sen. Clifford Krueger, of Merrill, and Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto, who usually vote with the Republican leadership.

Fought Bill

The GOP caucus leaders fought the bill as the potential incubator of a political machine that would work for the Democrats, and succeeded in getting some amendments approved.

One would require the governor to get senate confirmation for his nominee, which will have the effect of giving a veto power to the GOP senate majority when the department is actually organized.

Other Republicans said the new agency would spawn a new and costly bureaucracy. They noted that the considerable program of research and economic planning outlined in the bill cannot be done with the appropriations granted.

Formal Dedication of New Fond du Lac Airport Sunday

Fond du Lac county's new $540,000 airport, 1.4 miles west of the downtown business district, will be dedicated at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Headlining the list of dignitaries who will be on hand for the dedication program will be Rep. William K. Van Pelt of the Sixth congressional district, who will fly here from Washington, and Lt. Gov. Phil Lee Nash, who will be representing Gov. Nelson.

Music will be by the Fond du Lac military band. After the ribbon-cutting ceremony at the junction of the north and south runways, there will be aerial demonstrations of various aircraft and a special fly-over with Carl Guell, Madison, a member of the state aeronautics commission staff, as the narrator.

Two Runways
The new airport offers pilots north-south and east-west lighted and paved runways. In addition, there is 400 feet of runoff area at each end of the runways, giving an overall 4,400 length. A paved 2,800 foot taxiway borders the north-south runway and the airplane ramp, and plane and car parking areas are also paved.

Future plans call for the expansion of the north-south runway by 350 to 400 feet, and construction of an east-west taxiway. In addition, the industrial hangar area will be developed further.

Skyport, Inc., operators of the airport under a lease plan, have a $75,000 hangar and operations building, including modern offices. The firm also has erected 10 T-shaped hangars and plans further building expansion. The port has intercom radio service, being able to contact aircraft within 50 miles. At the present time there are 25 airplanes stationed at the port, several of them owned by industries.

$100,000 Hangar
The Kiekhaefer corporation was the first industry to construct a hangar at the new airport at a cost of $100,000.

All buildings at the county airport were constructed through private capital. The port occupies 183 acres of land west of Highway 41.

Pilots from throughout the state will have a chance to inspect the new airport.

Sputnik III Visible Over Fox Cities

Sputnik III will be visible in the Fox Cities area for the next three weeks. Norman Miller, route 1, Seymour, reported.

Miller contacted Gale V. Highsmith, Milwaukee, computing astronomer for the Milwaukee Astronomical society, for the exact times the satellite, launched by Russia May 15, 1958, can be seen.

It will be visible about 80 degrees from the horizon—nearly overhead—at 2:23 a. m. Tuesday, 1:55 a. m. Saturday and 1:26 a. m. Monday traveling from southwest to northeast, about 30 degrees from true north and south.

Alternate Days
On the alternate days it will be about 45 degrees high in the east or west and will be more difficult to see.

Sputnik III, which travels 1,700 miles an hour and circles the earth every 88 minutes, will get brighter and will be visible during the evening later during the 3-week period. It now is about 700 miles high when it passes over the Fox Cities area.

The satellite looks like a yellow-orange streak which brightens occasionally but not consistently, Miller says. Now it is as bright as fifth magnitude stars, such as the small stars in the little dipper.

Non-Support Count

A charge of failing to support his three minor children, aged 2 through 4, against Louis Cooper, 27, route 1, Oneida, was adjourned a week Tuesday in municipal court for investigation.

Steel Strike Won't Hurt Fox Cities if It's Short

Fox Cities area firms using steel for construction and in production won't be caught short by the nationwide steel strike, but if the strike lasts more than a month, several companies may find themselves in difficulty.

Only one firm reported it would have immediate problems. Badger Northland, Kaukauna, says its peak season is just beginning, and a month-long strike would force it to close down.

All other firms surveyed, however, report they have enough steel on hand to weather a strike of one month to six weeks. "We've been laying in steel since December," one representative said. "Hasn't everybody?"

Construction and specialty manufacturing companies could have difficulties if they win new contracts before the strike is settled. As one manufacturer put it, "No matter how much steel we stock, it seems when we get a new job we don't have the right kind on hand."

"The tone of friendliness, helpful service"

Thimmany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna, stated that product sales would be affected by a long strike because the company supplies industrial papers to all steel industries for use in processing and shipping steel.

Other paper companies and small manufacturing firms say their supply could weather a 3-month strike. One executive optimistically reported that his firm could continue operations for six months without needing any additional steel.

Menasha school building should continue unhampered, Charles Gambsky company reports. Ornamental iron may be in short supply, but the school is not far enough along to need it, Gambsky said.

Same All Over

Nationally most construction contractors and fabricators are prepared to weather a steel mill shutdown of two weeks to 30 days, but a longer strike will mean trouble, according to a regional roundup in Engineering News-Record.

The extension of the strike deadline to Wednesday gave contractors more time to add to inventories. A steel famine of two weeks can be expected after a strike, since it takes that long to refill the pipelines with raw materials from source to the mills and to return equipment to normal production.

Contractors and fabricators are not relying on foreign steel to carry them through. Despite the sharp rise in steel imports in recent months, the industry is steering clear of heavy shapes and plate produced abroad. However, foreign producers are not overlooking the possibility that some in the industry will change their minds.

Outagamie County Authorities examine under section the dump truck which killed George Lucas, 67, Hortonville, about 2:45 p.m. Tuesday. From left are Sheriff Robert Heinritz, Coroner Bernard H. Kemps and Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson. Lucas, an Outagamie county highway worker, died instantly when the dump truck box, loaded with three tons of bituminous mix, dropped on his neck. The accident occurred as highway crews worked on County Trunk D on the Outagamie-Waupaca county line south of New London.

Lucas and tossing Steffen to the ground, Waupaca County Police Capt. Royal Myhill said. Steffen received a 1-inch scratch on his cheek.

Dr. John W. Monsted, Waupaca county deputy coroner, said there would be no inquest and Kemps concurred.

In Waupaca

The accident occurred where half of County Trunk D is in Outagamie, half in Waupaca county. The actual death occurred in Waupaca county.

Customarily, Waupaca and Outagamie county highway crews split work on the road, each taking four miles of an 8-mile section south of New London, rather than working half the width of the roadway for the entire distance. Outagamie County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson said.

Over 65 Lucas twice had been allowed by the Outagamie county board to continue work after the mandatory 65-year-old retirement age.

Lucas' body remained caught between the truck box and chassis members for about 30 minutes, until a hoist truck arrived from New London to lift the truck box.

Cause of death was crushing head and neck injuries, Dr. Monsted said.

Lucas was born June 13, 1892, in Lithuania and had been a county employee since 1923.

County Switchboard To Be Relocated

Outagamie county's telephone switchboard will be moved, probably into a location where the switchboard operator will staff an information desk, the county board's telephone investigation committee told the board Tuesday.

The committee, originally formed to investigate if charges were too high, decided, its report stated, that charges were in line with other counties. However, the committee recommended and the board approved removing special types of phones not needed and which cost the county $29.70 monthly. The equipment is in the treasurer, highway department, district attorney, tax department, clerk of courts and county nurse offices.

Edward Peotter, route 1, Seymour, has been reappointed to a 2-year term to the Outagamie County Safety Council by county board Chairman Alvin Fulcer.

It can readily be seen that 13 tricks can be taken in hearts or clubs and even in no trump. Why doesn't every good player bid and make seven or eight? I wish I could answer that but, for a change words fail me. It just is not in the cards to bid a grand slam on this hand, but there is little excuse for not bidding a small slam.

North's opening bid of one heart is all right although many would prefer to open with one no trump — yes, even with the worthless doubleton in diamonds. South's response of two clubs is normal and North's bid of three clubs over West's spade overcall is the first key bid on the hand. Window Seat Idea Answers a Reader's Question

A window seat can be hand-somely styled into a very up-to-date room, and here's an idea for making it a smooth fit to the room's decoration. Mrs. F. C. D. asked, "Would a window seat be too old-fashioned for my contemporary furnishings? We have a very shallow bay that overlooks the garden and I think we'd enjoy sitting there if I could think of a way to avoid chairs that there's no room for. Can you suggest a plan that would seem right for the room?"

Have the window seat built into the bay, Mrs. D., and then er-seated chairs are red, but I'd like to repaint them and also to repaint a small cabinet and a separate kitchen table the same color. The room is large and old-fashioned and it's cut up with numerous doors, none of which we can do without. Appliances are white and the linoleum is beige. Will you suggest a color for the new paint and also for new leather for the chair seats?"

If the leather on the chair seats is in good condition, it can be refinished in the special leather coating that is flexible and has the appearance of original leather finishes. A blue toward a hyacinth shade would be attractive with green and this color should be found first in the finish or in new leather, then matched for the paint. However, it might be better not to paint everything the same color. For example, the chairs might be the green of the walls and have the violet blue seats while the other furniture is all blue, but what color goes where depends on where they are in the room.

This room could use pattern, probably in curtains, in the green and blue on white.

Mrs. A. MacD. "Would blond tables or darker ones be better for my living room? We're about to hang white wallpaper with a small gold figure in it and have a black and white tweed rug, an olive green sofa and lounge chair and two pull-up chairs with tangerine cushions." Tables in the popular middle brown tones will be richer with the strongly contrasting colors in the room. You will also find a wider choice of tables in the set-back, and the fabric will complete this pleasant unit as it covers the seat cushion needed for comfort. Swing curtains low to see over or higher if need be but to pull back easily. If sheer curtaining is pleasantest, match it to the pattern background. If heavier curtaining is needed for privacy, it can be of the cushion over fabric.

Mrs. C. C. P. "The walls of my kitchen are painted two shades of Williamsburg green, the top lighter than the lower. A table and leather-seated chairs are red, but I'd like to repaint them and also to repaint a small cabinet and a separate kitchen table the same color. Home on Wheels Trailer Trip Life of Carefree Vagabond

BY BOB THOMAS

Los Angeles—What's it like to take a vacation in a trailer? When you're on the highway, you have the strange feeling that something is following your car closely. Something is. You're surprised when you can't make a quick getaway from a signal, and climbing hills is a bit of a strain. But on flat roads you scarcely remember what you are hauling.

Living in the trailer makes you claustrophobic at first. But then you become delighted at how cozy and convenient everything is.

Family Experiment
These were conclusions of one family after a week's experiment in mobile living. It all started when another Associated Press staffer, Jack Quigg, suggested we join his family on a trailer vacation. The suggestion sounded like a lark, so we tried it.

First, preparation. I pored over the California Vehicle code to learn the laws about trailers. You can't drive faster than 45 m.p.h. You've got to have rear lights on the trailer and wide-arm side mirrors on your car.

Mobile homes of 30 feet and over cost from $3,500 to $9,000. But most trailers rented for vacations are 15-footers.

They can sleep four comfortably, have gas stove and oven, electric lights, ice box, and dining area. They are under 1,500 pounds; California state law requires special brakes and hitches above that weight. Rental in the Los Angeles area: $25 a week.

Comforts of Home
Enough of facts, let's get on the road. I got the family car equipped with a hitch and reported to a company in Sun Valley to pick out a handsome 23-footer. Feeling the green-horn, I asked for driving instructions.

"Don't worry — it'll follow right along," the display man said.

So I pulled out, the monster behind me. The trailer followed right along. I soon realized I didn't even need to make the wide, sweeping turns around corners.

At home, the parents and two daughters loaded the home-on-wheels with a hundred pounds of food, clothes, bedding, books, games, records, etc. Storage space everywhere. At last we were ready for the big adventure and set out on the Hollywood Freeway.

Ready to Roll

It's unnerving at first to cling to the right-hand lane with the old folks and trucks while the other cars go whizzing past. But you get used to it. You also learn to baby your load along, accelerating deliberately and anticipating the stops.

Trailer Life

First stop was a trailer park near Palm Springs. We got parked—backing up isn't easy, as you may have suspected—and hooked up to water, electricity and sewer.

Then we began the trailer life. First impressions:

1. Living is amazingly simple — like camping out but with the comforts of civilization. Cheap, too. Park rentals averaged $2 a night. Compare this to motel or hotel lodging, plus eating out.

Privacy

2. Trailer folks are warm and friendly. But they don't intrude; there seems to be a mutual respect of privacy.

After two days in the sun, we pulled the plugs and headed south through the date palms and orange groves to Borrego Springs, a lovely, unspoiled section of desert amid rolling mountains.

This was our first experience with no parking space: trailer facilities at the state park were full. So we found a privately operated park.

Carl and Olva Vogt, parents of five children, both work at other jobs to finance a swimming pool and other facilities for their trailer enterprise. We learned a trailer park is no small investment. The Vogts figure a $1,500 bill for each installation.

Big Investment

New parks for 100 trailers are costing an initial $250,000. There are 14,000 in the country today. Despite the big cost, 1,000 new ones are being added yearly.

Another two days passed swiftly, and then we left the desert for the mountains of San Diego county. After a side trip to Mt. Palomar observatory, we continued to the Pacific for our last stop before heading up the Coast Highway to home.

Suggestions

Our trailer experiment was a success, a refreshing escape to the simple life. If you try it, I'd make these suggestions:

1. Don't try to cover too much ground. Pulling a trailer is more tiring than ordinary touring.
2. Make sure you'll have a place to park. Facilities are often crowded, and many parks won't take travelers, especially those with children.
3. Go with another family. It's more fun that way.

Ingenuity, Home-Grown Blooms Create Unusual Arrangements

BY CAROL RICHARDSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Imaginations ran rampant Monday evening when members of the YMCA Garden club brought backyard blossoms to their meeting and fashioned them into original arrangements. The workshop was conducted by Mrs. Sam Salan, Waupaca, who is an accredited judge of flower shows.

Before the women started cutting and arranging their flowers, Mrs. Salan gave several pointers. She suggested using evergreens and foliage as background for the buds and advised using the needle point type of base instead of chicken wire, which does not usually hold arrangements securely. She advised Garden club members to limit use of flower arrangements to one in a room and told them not to decide in advance where to place the flowers. "It's much easier to fit the flowers to their environment after they are grouped in a display," she pointed out.

"Cut anything that appeals to you," she added "and pick interesting foliage. Take branches off anything you see in your garden and these can form the background for flowers." The women also learned to begin their creations with leaves and to group the various types of blossoms that will be incorporated into one arrangement.

Mrs. Salan warned against placing fresh cut flowers in cold water and told the workshop to use warm water. Hints on keeping roses were also given. She advised cutting the stems with a sharp razor blade daily and leaving the roses in water that is warm, not hot.

The flower judge concluded by telling members to let themselves go when arranging flowers and that is just what they did as they began to group their plants and foliage into interesting displays.

Various Shapes

All shapes and sizes of containers were used, from wide, shallow dishes to bowl-shaped glassware. Holders shaped like birds and animals were not advised as they detract from the beauty of the flowers, but natural materials such as pieces of driftwood and hollow logs usually enhance blossoms and dried arrangements.

Stoneware pickle crocks, bottles and unusual tumblers can often be used to good advantage as holders and some accessories like wood carvings, ceramic figurines, stones and seed pods accent the color, character and mood of an arrangement.

Select materials which create a definite feeling when grouped together and one or two kinds of plant material blossoms will surely detract usually enough. The container, place mats and accessories should be chosen to emphasize the character of the plants.

An easy guide in placing materials is to arrange them the way they grow, as roses grow in clumps. Allow branches to move together and avoid crossed stems and for unity repeat the same colors and shapes in flowers and leaves.

To vary flowers of the same kind, use buds with half and completely opened blossoms.

Mrs. Salan advised the women on points which judges consider in flower contests. "The arrangements must comply with the show's schedule for designs," she pointed out. "Most flower shows have definite categories and if the entry doesn't comply with the rules, it will be eliminated."

Harmony Important
She said judges look for harmony with the container and with its background and to expose greater stem surface for water intake and slightly any color combination to open the pores to water. Remove Mrs. Salan explained, "but a leaves below the water line good way to determine if it is so they cannot decay and increase flower deterioration. Change the water frequently.

Keep flowers in a cool place and if they are refrigerated, keep them covered over in a plastic bag. Cut flower foods and preservatives also keep blossoms crisp and fresh.

Other points mentioned were originality, fitness for the occasion and the condition of the flowers. Arrangements are judged the first day and imperfect or bug-damaged flowers will surely detract from an entry. Yellow or wormy background foliage will also be noticed by the judges.

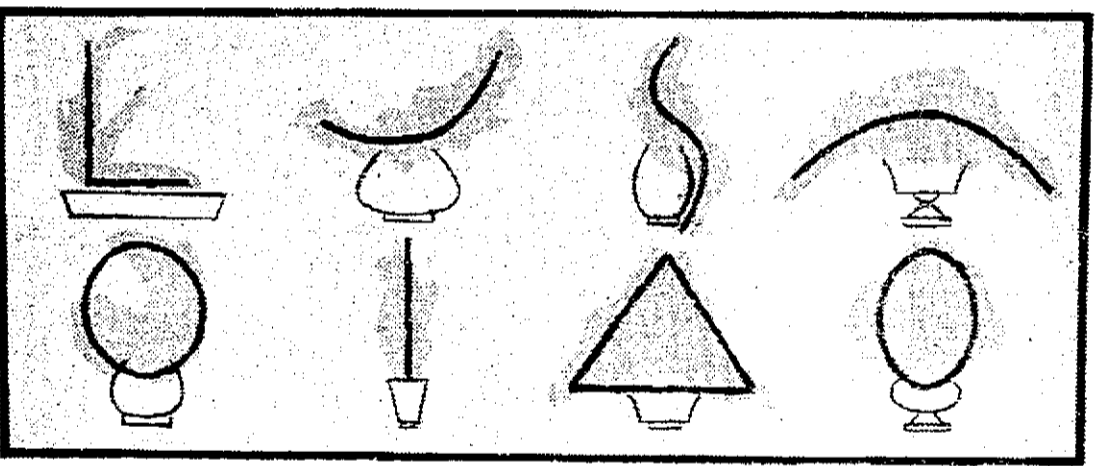

For maximum flower freshness, cut the stems diagonal-

Yellow Daisies Were Attractively grouped in a temporary seashell and placed on a wooden tray by Mrs. Al Johnson and the gay, red dahlias and Hosta leaves in a deep glass bowl were arranged by Mrs. Vanevenhoven.

Soak Discolored Clothing in Washing Powder

Dacron or dacron and cotton garments can be restored to whiteness by soaking in a dishwashing compound, suggests Lenore Landry, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Use 1 cup of the compound in one gallon warm water and let the garments soak overnight. Use an enamel container. Then rinse under the faucet for about 10 minutes.

Wash the garments using a water conditioner or softener that leaves the water clear, rinse in softened water then in clear water.

Pair Faces 2 Weddings In One Day

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I accepted a wedding invitation to a dear friend's daughter's wedding. Now this morning we received one from my husband's niece who is going to be married the same day and practically at the same time. My husband feels we ought to go to this one. I think that having accepted the invitation to the first wedding we are obliged to go to it and that it would hurt my friend's feelings if we now declined her invitation in favor of another. Will you please tell us what is proper in this situation?

Answer: Your husband is really right in that your duty to a niece is more important than that to a friend. A possible way out of your dilemma would be for you to go to the wedding of your friend's daughter because you accepted it first, and your husband to go to his own niece's wedding because she is his niece.

Should Accept Money
Dear Mrs. Post: A neighbor recently had an overflow of guests (family) and I offered my spare bedroom which was accepted. They were no trouble. Since they left I have found on the dresser a nice thank-you note and a small sum of money with a request that I buy something for myself. Should I return this money?

Answer: Nothing could hurt their feelings more than to misunderstand their kind intentions. You really cannot do other than follow their request and write a thank-you letter, telling them what it was you bought.

Absent Godparents
Dear Mrs. Post: The friends we would like to ask to be the godparents of our baby cannot be present at the christening. Are friends ever asked to be godparents when they cannot be present personally?

Answer: Yes, it is not at all unusual, and in such cases somebody in the immediate family usually acts as proxy at the ceremony for the absent godparents.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-5, entitled, "The Bride's Trousseau," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E.P., care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal letters.

Mrs. Jeanne Forslind, Center, 35-year-old San Mateo, Calif., county's Polio Mother of the Year, rehearses for the chorus of "HMS Pinafore" being presented by her church. She was stricken with polio seven years ago and was almost totally paralyzed. She waged her own determined campaign and now drives her own car, earns a living and cares for her two daughters.

Polio 'Mother of Year' Now Dances in Chorus

BY CHARLES McMURTRY
Burlingame, Calif. — With never-ending effort, she wasn't even listed in the sup- back into use. She waged her own slow, determined campaign, largely with massage and water therapy.

She took over her home duties. Then she took a full-time job as a bookkeeper. She began to drive her own car. She abandoned her crutches and learned to compensate for the one remaining difficulty — her right leg in which the muscles had deteriorated too far to respond even to her insistent urging.

Six months ago, when she was named Polio Mother of the Year in tribute to her courage, she said: "Some day soon, I'm going to try dancing again. I used to love it."

She never got around to taking dancing lessons. "But I have to walk," she said simply. "I have two children to care for." And walk she did. After an eight months in a hospital, she insisted upon going home. She scorned use of a wheel- chair. Slowly, painfully, and with never-ending effort, she forced the unwilling muscles wasn't even listed in the sup- back into use. She waged her own slow, determined campaign, largely with massage and water therapy.

When the Episcopal Church of St. Matthew planned to produce HMS Pinafore to help Mills Memorial hospital's fund drive, Mrs. Forslind wanted to help. She went with a friend who was signing up for the singing-dancing chorus.

"Now's your chance to dance," the friend said. Mrs. Forslind protested: "I'm afraid I'd spoil the effect of the chorus. It might look as if I were limping and I'd be a drag on the rest of them."

The others chorused: "You're going to dance." So the plucky 35-year old woman who never has turned down a challenge joined the chorus line, singing and dancing the gay numbers in the lulling Gilbert and Sullivan favorite.

Man Loves 'Sweet, Young Girl,' Asks Wife to Act Normal

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: What am I going to do with my wife? Innocently I fell in love with a sweet young girl and I can't get over it.

I've decided to stay with my wife and four kids because we used to get along fine before this love affair hit, and I think we can manage again.

But my wife is not at all understanding, Ann. She keeps asking me if I still love her. I tell her not to push me, that I've decided to stay with her and that should be enough.

I see the other girl occasionally and my wife knows it. She doesn't mention it often, but when she does I want to pack up and leave. I can't stand that hurt look in her eyes. Why can't she act like everything is normal and give me a chance to get hold of my emotions? After all, I'm trying my best and I'm not a machine.—All Shook Up.

Dear Shook: So you're not a machine and you're "trying your best." Well—I've got news—your wife's not a machine either and she's probably trying her best, too.

You expect a great deal of a woman when you ask her to act like everything is normal when she knows her husband is seeing a sweet young thing on the side. If you're serious about wanting to make a go of your marriage cut all ties with this girl and let your wife know you've finished with it.

DEAR ANN: *My wife and I find your replies sensible and practical. We'd like your opinion on the following: Should a young person (boy or girl) after finishing school and securing a well-paying position, continue to live with parents and not pay for room and board?

We know of cases where the young people live at home free, buy themselves expensive clothes, cars and take trips while their parents struggle to make ends meet. Is this the modern way of doing things?—Molly and Bill.

Dear Molly and Bill: People who struggle to put their children through school, then permit them to live at home free while they spend money on luxuries, are not modern—they're stupid.

Even if parents do not need financial help they should accept some compensation so their children can maintain their self-respect.

Employed sons and daughters living at home should contribute between 25 per cent and 30 per cent of their pay checks to parents who need a financial lift. This is much less than it would cost them to live elsewhere.

150 Students Summer Reading Class Employs Old Methods

Common sense and the old-fashioned study of phonics still are a teacher's most useful tools when she teaches reading.

That is the conclusion of Miss Lois Smith, reading consultant for Appleton schools and head of the 6-week summer remedial reading program.

Miss Smith and five other reading specialists this summer are working with nearly 150 grade school children who have reading problems, and the results, even with old-fashioned techniques, are frequently astounding.

Some students, for example, turn into veritable bookworms. Miss Smith explains. In fact, one lad has become so fascinated with books this summer, after never having read one before, that his mother complained that he was not getting in enough playing time.

Bad Check Artist Gets Prison Terms For Forgery, Theft

William Egbert, 41, now serving a 1- to 7-year term in the state prison for forgery, was sentenced to a year in prison for stealing a car last November and to a 1- to 2-year term for forging Sheriff's Lt. Jack Frenz's name to a $62 check at the same time. Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg ruled that the terms will run concurrently with Egbert's present sentence.

Egbert stole the car from an Appleton auto dealer and financed a trip to Milwaukee with the forged check.

His record indicates a 1-year sentence under the day parole plan in 1951 for worthless checks, leaving the jail about four months later, a year in jail for the jail escape, a year in jail for worthless checks in 1954, three years probation in 1955 for forgery and his present prison term for forgery and probation violation in 1956.

Sell Workshop 4-Acre Tract, Council Asked

Industrial Growth Committee Wants Board to Negotiate

The common council's industrial development committee has agreed to sell a nearly 4-acre piece of the city's industrial development park to Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop.

Committeemen said they will recommend to the council that the board of public works begin negotiations.

The land is on the west side of S. Perkins street in the extreme southeast corner of the original park site. There would be a 60-foot street right-of-way between it and the 10 acres on the north, which Appleton Manufacturing company purchased earlier.

Part of the land will include a portion of the 2.7-acre strip of Chicago and North Western right-of-way the city is purchasing.

Need Petition

Workshop officials in earlier talks revealed a $50,000 fund-raising campaign is underway to finance a new headquarters. The workshop employs 17 physically handicapped workmen.

The sale would wipe out the remaining frontage of the park on S. Perkins street, Mayor Mitchell said it is permission to make the in-d hoped the opening of County

Trunk and Between College avenue and Prospect avenue would provide access to the western area.

Director of Public Works Duszynski said the city intends to construct a 40-foot-wide concrete roadway on S. Perkins past the park. Park land buyers are subject to assessment for cost of services and roads.

Platting Ahead

Duszynski said platting of the park itself will be required soon to tie-down street locations and zoning of the park land.

Committeemen agreed to ask the council to order the department planning commission to commence zoning procedures. The land would be zoned heavy industrial district.

Mayor Mitchell said that when the Neuman property across the road, recommended for sale to Appleton Coated Paper company, Appleton Wire Works, Inc., and Tuttle Press company, is in city hands it will be annexed. So Principal Walter Fox and William Pickett, of the physical education department.

The board previously approved a grounds plan for the school and Badger Highways company crews now are at time last week, might be to require dust-free parking areas.

George A. Howden, president of Appleton Industrial Development corporation, which works closely with the city on development of a park, offered to arrange a trip to Chicago for the committee. He said he would like the committee to inspect several industrial park zones there.

Howden was asked to arrange the trip date and it was decided to ask the council for permission to make the inspection at city expense.

Ball Diamond Request Deferred By School Board

Instructional needs will be studied before the board of education decides whether to permit building a baseball diamond on the James Madison Junior High school grounds, the board has decided.

The ball diamond had been requested by the recreation department. Elmer Grover, director, said the department has no hardball fields available except Goodland field, which is tied up most of the summer.

School board members, however, said they must consider needs of the schools, even Paper company, Appleton Wire Works, Inc., and Tuttle Press company, is in city hands. They will confer with Principal Walter Fox and William Pickett, of the physical education department.

Cities Could Extend Insurances to Cover Workers' Dependents

Madison — Wisconsin municipalities may provide health, accident and life insurance coverage for dependents of their officers and employees under an amendment of state law now effective.

(Appleton currently permits officers and employees to elect health insurance and options are available to include the entire family. The city also offers a group life insurance coverage for employees, but has no accident coverage for workers other than workmen's compensation.)

Menasha — A 23-year-old Neenah driver today forfeited $15 in fines plus $8 costs on two traffic charges in Police Justice Arthur J. Ales' court.

He is Eugene A. Bruh, 401 Fifth street, Neenah, arrested at 1:30 a.m. today by city police for failure to stop at the arterial sign at Third and DePere streets and for driving 40 m.p.h. southbound on Appleton road and DePere street.

John W. Zick, 13, 802 Caroline street, Neenah, forfeited $10 and costs for speeding and spinning his car's wheels at Mill and Main streets Monday night. He was ordered to replace a loud muffler on his car.

Ralph H. Ordning, 24, Manitowoc, pleaded innocent today before Ales of driving at 42 m.p.h. on Plank road Saturday in a 25 zone. Ales set trial for 10 a.m. July 24.

Robert M. Driver, 22, 2163 Water street, forfeited $10 and costs for driving at 42 m.p.h. on Appleton road where he was arrested early today.

William H. Lethien, 26, 1015 S. Mason street, Appleton, forfeited $10 and costs for driving 40 m.p.h. on Appleton road early Thursday.

Motorist Denies Drunken Driving

Oshkosh — An Oshkosh summer visitor, Glenn H. Tabbert, 45, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., pleaded innocent of drunken driving in municipal court this morning. Judge S. J. Luchsinger set trial for 3 p.m. next Monday and bond at $150.

Tabbert was arrested at 11:40 p.m. Tuesday by the state traffic patrol at the intersection of Highways 41 and 44 in the town of Algoma.

Alderman Hits Method of Backfilling

Chunks of Masonry Used in Menasha Curb-Gutter Project

Menasha — A Menasha alderman today criticized backfilling methods at the curb-gutter project on London street.

Fourth Ward Ald. Louis Gamme said he believes backfill behind the new curbs should be smaller and more manageable.

He pointed out half a dozen large chunks of masonry, some up to 40 pounds, taken from a sewer catch basin replacement project, dumped as part of backfill at the corner of Roosevelt and London streets.

The property owner had pushed the large concrete and brick pieces into the gutter, in order to get his lawn terrace between sidewalk and curb in order.

Other properties along London street, Gamme demonstrated, also have big chunks of old masonry and paving materials mixed in with backfill.

City Engineer M. J. Noth said the contract for curb and gutter work calls for "rough backfilling," but added "it shouldn't be quite that rough."

Noth said the masonry chunks will be collected when the city street department crews finish the terraces.

Curb-gutter work this year is being performed for the city by Henry Verbruggen and Son, Little Chute. His contract on that part of the street work calls for 17,406 feet of curb and gutter at a contract price of $29,416.

Driver Slightly Hurt in Accident

Oshkosh — An Oshkosh man, Harry L. Thomson, 53, 2615 Vinland road, received several scratches on the left side of his head and his 1958 expensive foreign car was damaged when it went off Highway 110 at 10:16 p.m. Tuesday and uprooted several evergreen trees at the Ryl service station near County Trunk T.

Thomson said he was traveling south when an oncoming driver flicked his car lights onto bright and Thomson swerved to get out of the way. The car traveled 174 feet disturbance and striking his wife. Mrs. Schlack was treated for right hand injuries at Theda Clark Memorial hospital.

Gilbert Paper Plans $100,000 Plant Addition

New 2-Story Unit to Boost Finishing Room Space 50 Per Cent

Menasha — Gilbert paper company has begun building an addition to the north of its present finishing room. A $100,000 building permit was issued today to Fluor Brothers construction company of Oshkosh for the project.

T. M. Gilbert, president of the firm, today said the two-story masonry addition will be 72 by 100 feet in size, to give about a 50 per cent increase in space for finishing room operations.

Finishing operations will expand onto the upper floor of the addition. The basement will be used for storage.

The 72-foot dimension will carry the north wall of the addition to a driveway on the south bank of the Fox river channel.

Gilbert said the new machine was to be started today or Thursday, if final adjustments were made in time.

Finishing room enlargement is tied in with the new paper machine. "With the new machine, we will have more product to finish. We had to enlarge," said Gilbert.

Millwrights began removing the old paper machine June 14. "In 12 hours, it was gone," said Gilbert. "We could have held a dance on that floor."

The removal and installation of the new machine, were completed by working two 10-hour shifts daily with no breaks for Sundays or the July 4 holiday.

Gilbert's new machine was built by Valley Machine Company of Appleton. Gilbert said it is the first, or among the first, paper machine built by the Appleton company. Up to the present, Valley had concentrated on parts and sub-assemblies for paper machines, such as headboxes and rewind apparatus.

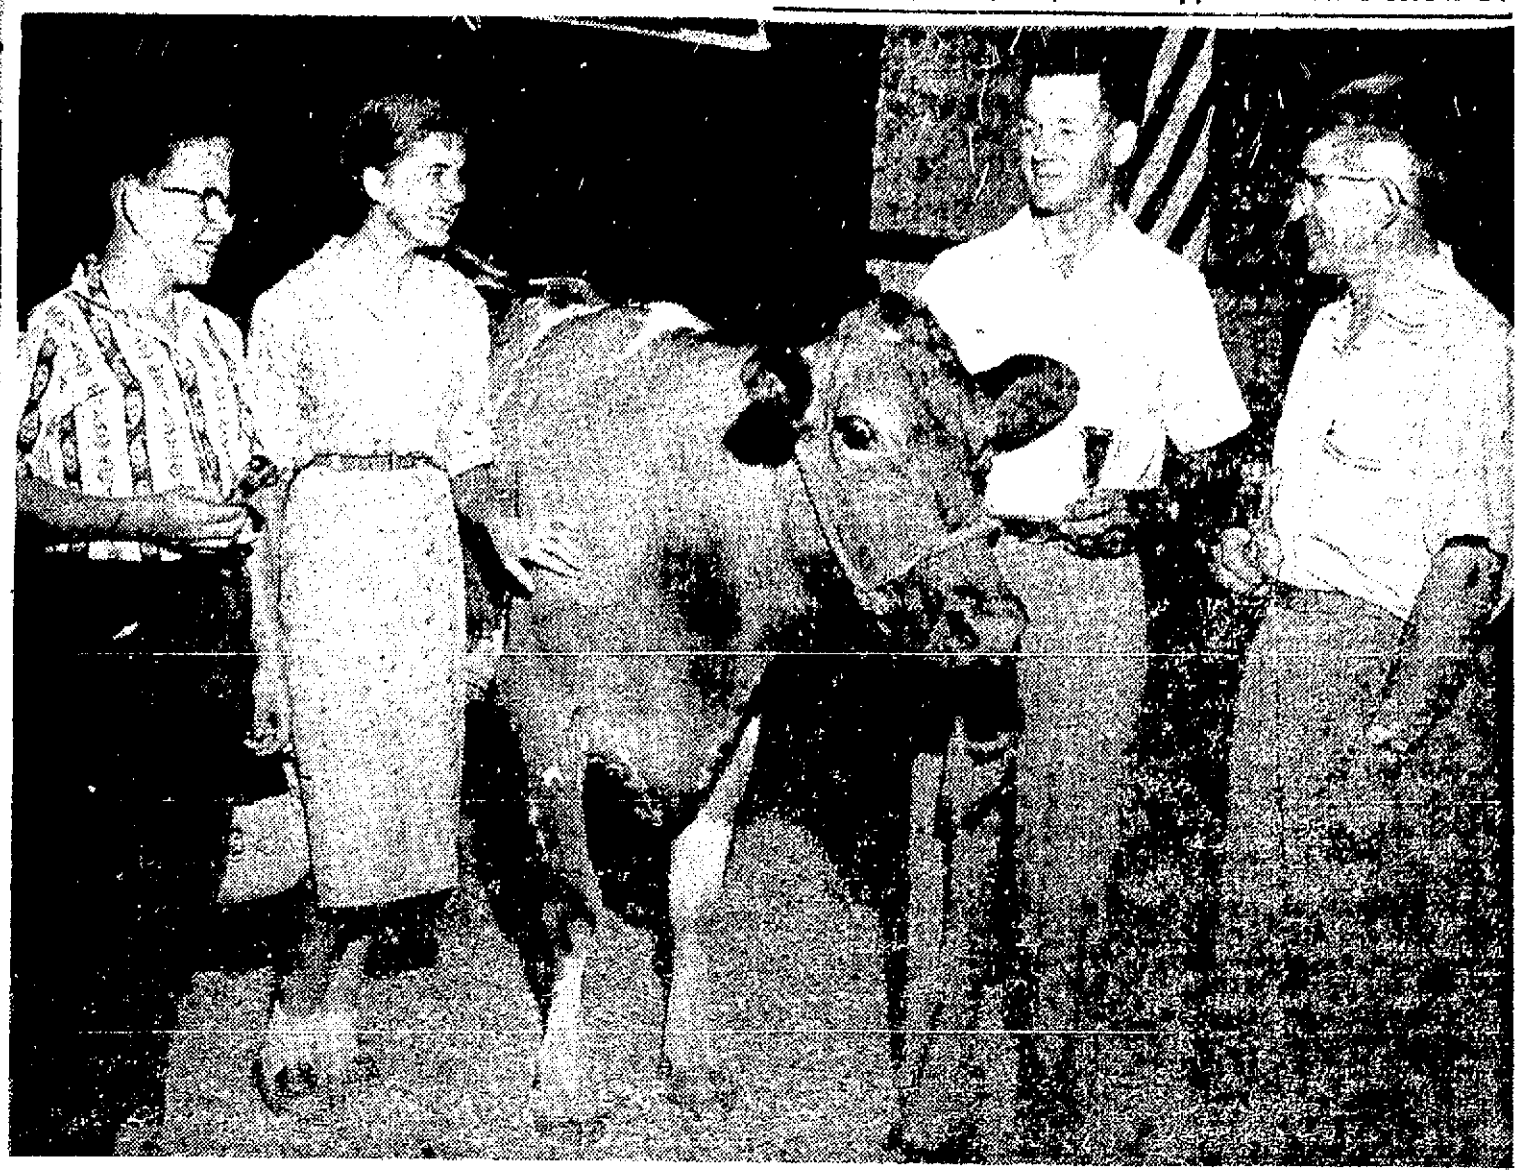

The company president said two other projects have been completed at the plant—reconditioning one boiler in crew arrived.

Pedestrian Not Hurt After Fall Against Train

Neenah — Glenn Haufe, 24, who has no regular Neenah address, according to police, but who gave 77 Sunset strip as his residence, escaped serious injury or death when he collided with a Soo Line switch engine at the Main street crossing about 1 a.m. today.

Haufe was walking along Main street and either walked into or fell against the switch engine which was headed north. He was taken to Theda Clark hospital in Neenah ambulance. No injuries were found.

Robert Stearns, route 2, Neenah, fireman on the engine, said he saw Haufe walking along and that the engine was going very slowly, stopping about 12 feet north of the sidewalk when the ambulance crew arrived.

Wooden Ware Studies $5,000,000 New Plant

Oregon Site Considered by Firm; No Commitments Made

Menasha — Engineering Part of the mill's production and economic studies for a new, 100 tons daily, would be $5,000,000 semichemical pulp used by Menasha Wooden Ware's corrugated box manufacturing plant at Anaheim, Calif., the official said. The region, company President Mowery west coast corrugated box makers. The new mill, which would employ about 100 workers, would be similar to the present operation at Otsego, Mich.

No formal announcement has been made by Menasha Wooden Ware, pending study findings. The Wall Street Journal recently noted the study in its west coast edition.

No commitments have been made, the company emphasized, since all work so far has been merely "exploratory," one official said.

If the engineering and economic studies are favorable, construction may begin next year, with production starting date, 33 home permits had been issued.

Green Bay High in Air Passengers

Ranks Third for Ports on Local Service Airlines

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Green Bay ranked third in the United States in 1958 for passengers boarded on flights from cities served exclusively by local service airlines.

Among all cities served by airlines in the United States, Green Bay ranked 35th. This list included 392 cities receiving scheduled airline service and the ranking also was based on number of passengers boarded.

The statistics are included in the June issue of "Flight," magazine of the airline industry. The entire June issue is devoted to local air service as provided by 20 carriers, among them North Central, which serves Green Bay.

A year after the Outagamie county board turned down a referendum recommendation of Outagamie voters to acquire a mile-square airport site in Calumet county, Green Bay began development of Austin-Straubel airport.)

Other Rankings

The compilation by "Flight" shows Green Bay trailing Utica, N. Y., and Duluth, Minn., in the listing of 50 cities served exclusively by local service airlines. Oshkosh is ranked ninth, Wausau 18th, Beloit 25th, La Crosse 42nd and Stevens Point 46th in this category.

Green Bay boarded 28,745 passengers during 1958 compared with 50,389 at Utica and 31,375 at Duluth.

The passenger total here last year showed an increase of 17.1 per cent over 1957, when 24,540 passengers started trips from Austin Straubel field. Passengers boarded per plane reparture here last year totaled 3.2. This put Green Bay 47th in the ranking according to passengers per flight.

On the North Central system alone, Green Bay ranked seventh in passenger totals last year. Cities ahead included Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Detroit, Duluth and Madison.

Steel Mills Used Extension to Take Care of Buyers

New York — Steel mills made good use of the 2-week steel labor contract extension to take care of their customers, Iron Age magazine said today. Shipments were very heavy, the publication added.

The national metal-working weekly, making no mention of a steel strike in its news release, said steel mills were still uncertain how strong their market will be when operations are back to normal.

Mills producing large-tonnage carbon steel products know there was a massive inventory buildup in the first half of the year but are encouraged, Iron Age said, by these facts:

1. There have been no significant cancellations or deferrals since the start of July.
2. Talks with customers indicate most want all the steel they have ordered.
3. The rate of incoming orders at one large mill last week was about in line with its operating rate.
4. Plate and structural schedules are already 50 per cent filled for September.

'Do It Yourself' Movement Turns to Fancy Cooking, Epicures Prepare Dishes

AP Newsfeatures

The disappearance of the domestic and the boundy to America are combining to create a new breed of discerning eaters: epicures who cook the dishes they enjoy.

"Lucullus, Madame Pompadour, Louis XIV and Marie Antoinette were great gourmets," says Poppy Cannon, one of the new cook-epicures, "but any of them would have been helpless in the kitchen. The Duc de Richelieu has several sauces named in his honor — but in honor of his inspiration and appreciation, not his preparation. The only notable exception I can think of was Alexandre Dumas, who was not only a great epicure but a magnificent and daring cook."

This country's great cooks and good eaters are being developed right in their own kitchens, not in its restaurants, she says.

Must Help Yourself

"It has come about as a matter of necessity," insists Miss Cannon. "We have lost our servants, and in order to have great food you have to know how to make it yourself."

In another era it took years to evolve as a great chef, and most of them learned as they worked along with a skilled veteran. Today a beginner can take many short-cuts and has on hand a great many aids.

"In the first place, there is a wealth of literature on good cooking now," said Miss Cannon. "It is in books, in newspapers and in magazines."

"In the second place, there is a wealth of materials available for superb cooking. No king ever knew such bounty of foods which are available in and out of season. The average supermarket — the average, mind you — stocks about 5,000 different items, including such things as saffron, or egano and sesame."

Many Good Cooks

Miss Cannon says that thousands of men and women have become knowledgeable about cooking that "advanced" cook books now have the brisk sale which once was reserved for the retreat Friday and the basic cookbooks which started with recipes on boiling water. A few years ago she authored a best-selling book on cooking short-cuts which enjoyed a tremendous sale. Now, in collaboration with Alice B. Toklas, a San Fran-

Women Have Three Special Ministries, Leader Tells Forum

Green Lake — "Is it more important for a woman to bring the church into her home or to take the church out into the world?" This question was considered by Miss Helen Turnbull in her address Tuesday evening to more than 450 women at the National Women's conference in session this week at American Baptist assembly.

The question is already partly answered by circumstances, Miss Turnbull said. In the world of 1959, it is almost impossible for a woman to remain isolated from the world. The telephone, television, neighbors, newspapers and children all bring her into contact with the world outside her home. So the answer is two-fold, she explained.

"The home responsibilities must be central, but a woman must also go out as a Christian into the world." A woman as a woman has three special ministries in this world, the forum leader declared. First, she is generally not an ordained minister, so she is a member of the great group known as the laity.

Twin City Group
To Buy Tract in Outagamie County

Neenah — Approval of the purchase of a 20 acre tract of land was given by the membership of the Twin City Rod and Gun club at a spe-cial meeting Tuesday night.

The land, located off Coun-ty Trunk BB in Outagamie county, will be developed in long range plans by the club. Acquisition ends a two year search by the board of direc-tors for such a tract.

Future plans call for picnic and parking facilities to be developed. There is sufficient area for a tree planting pro-gram to be started.

Other plans the club has for the area includes archery, pis-tol, small and heavy bore ri-fle ranges plus skeet and trap shooting facilities.

All this work is scheduled for the future and will be done as the members see fit. Mem-bers have been asked to con-tribute to the purchase fund set up by the club and acqui-sition plans are underway. John Britzke reported today.

Loan Program For Students To be Opposed

Private Colleges Dislike Benefit Scale In Nelson Proposal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Gov. Nelson's generous student loan and scholarship program may be sidetracked by resistance from some state colleges and universities.

Reliable accounts say some spokesmen for private colleges and universities are displeased by the details of the proposal for state subsidies for needy and worthy students, although they support the general purpose of the legislation.

Under the circumstances it is unlikely that the program can be pushed at the present session of the legislature, although changes may be worked out in time for consideration in the fall session, capitol sources say.

Undermine Base
Some private school officers are concerned that the plan for a single scale of benefits for approved students, whether they enroll at public or private schools, may undermine their enrollment base.

They plead that a $600 a year grant, for example, would cover most of the expenses at a state school, where tuition fees are low.

But it would cover only half, or less, of the enrollment expenses at a typical private college or university, and thus might prevent such scholarship students from enrolling there.

Legislators are concerned that a higher scale of benefits for a student enrolling at a private school might be challenged as a contribution of public funds to private or sectarian purposes.

Medical Student Confesses Stabbing Communist Official

Rangoon, Burma — Police today held a Chinese medical student they said confessed he knifed Liu Ping-Yi, an official at the red Chinese embassy, for making passes at his sister.

The arrested man, whose name was kept secret, was identified as a student at Rangoon university. Police said he claimed the stabbing had no political motives and denied any party affiliations.

Liu, third secretary of the embassy's commercial department, was reported out of danger but still unconscious in a hospital. Burmese police and troops kept his ward under heavy guard.

The wounded man was found at the door of the home of Col. Roy Abelt, the U.S. air attaché. Sunday night. Authorities said he begged for American asylum. The United States gave asylum two weeks ago to an information officer of the Soviet embassy who quit his embassy and said he wanted to oppose communism.

Negro Gets Suspended Jail Sentence for Calling White Girl

Pine Bluff, Ark. — A 15-year-old Negro was fined $200 and given a suspended 6-months jail sentence Monday for making telephone calls to a white girl of the same age.

Cleon Flowers, Jr., was charged with harassment by telephone, a misdemeanor. Municipal Judge Wilton Steed suspended the jail sentence during good behavior. Flowers pleaded guilty.

Police Chief Norman Young said the youth admitted calling the unidentified girl several times and writing her a letter in an attempt to establish a romantic relationship.

A charge against Dr. Cleon

A. Flowers, the boy's father, of interfering with an officer was dismissed. It was lodged because of alleged interference with police when they tried to question his son.

Ethiopia Gets Russian Loan

Emperor Returns Home With Large, Long Term Credit

Moscow—Premier Khrushchev sent Emperor Haile Selassie winging back toward Ethiopia Monday with a 400 million ruble credit (about $100 million) to help industrialize his underdeveloped nation.

The Soviet premier and President Klement Voroshilov accompanied the emperor to Vnuukovo airport where an honor guard, bands and members of Moscow's diplomatic corps saw him into a plane after his 2-week stay.

The Soviet TU104 jet airliner took the Ethiopians to Prague for a 5-day visit.

A joint communique said the credit will be available on a low-interest, low-term basis. It will be used not only for industrialization but also to improve agriculture.

Voroshilov, as official host, made a brief farewell speech wishing the emperor success and happiness. The president praised the "courageous and industrious" people of Ethiopia and noted that the agreement on trade and cultural exchanges signed during the visit is designed to strengthen relations between the two nations.

In reply, Haile Selassie praised the "compassion and kindness" of the Russians toward his country.

"We are greatly impressed by the genius of your leaders, their ability and their industrious work which have brought the future into the present," he declared.

Propose Symbolic Canal Zone Occupation

Panama—Two opposition political leaders have sounded a call for a peaceful symbolic occupation of the Panama Canal Zone when this country observes independence day Nov. 3.

The proposal was made by former Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd and Ernesto Castillo Pimentel, who were the first to demand that the United States give Panama half the gross proceeds from operation of the canal.

Boyd first broached the occupation idea in a broadcast. He said Panamanians should place the national flag throughout the canal zone Nov. 3.

This would be a repetition of "Operation Sovereignty" May 2, 1958, when university students placed 50 Panamanian flags throughout the zone in what the foreign office called a symbolic act. The flags were quickly removed by zone police.

ing) and acceptance (general acceptance of a word; a usage). Thus: "His acceptance of the gift was gracious," and "Common acceptance permits us to say 'auto' and 'plane.'"

Often Mispronounced: Nausea. Pronounce nah-shee-a, accent on first syllable.

Often Misspelled: Chaise longue; not "chaise lounge," as is sometimes seen, and pronounced.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: Jingoism: belief, policy, or practice of or characteristic of being bellicose in foreign affairs policies. "The politician's speech was replete in jingoism."

Herter Aids U. S. With New Policies

Has More Grace, Flexibility Than Predecessor Foster Dulles

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — The return to Geneva of Sec. of State Christian Herter for the foreign ministers conference over Berlin is a great bookmarker in the story of history.

White

For the Herter who participates in phase two at Geneva, the end of one chapter and the opening of another in United States diplomacy. For the first time, he is strictly and wholly his own man. The grip of his powerful dead predecessor, John Foster Dulles, is now finally relaxed.

The line between the old Dulles approach and the new Herter approach was drawn by Herter before departing Washington. He never announced that any alteration was at hand. But he made it plain to those who cared to listen attentively.

Principles Unchanged

What is the nature of the change? It is not the abandonment of the American line toward the Russians. It does not suggest that Christian Herter will be open to compromises which Dulles would have spurned. It does not mean an alteration of principle.

It does mean an alteration of method and manner. If any country, antagonistic or allied, supposes that Herter will be soft where Dulles was hard that country will be very wrong. It can be assumed safely that Sec. Herter will negotiate with more flexibility, with more grace and with a less stiff sense of unbending rightness.

Herter has already taken steps that have these inner meanings:

1. To concede to the Soviet Union, for negotiating purposes, a larger degree of sincerity — or at least a sometimes-and-maybe sincerity — than Dulles would have conceded.

2. To move the United States a fraction away from the almost total deference it showed to the desires of Konrad Adenauer of West Germany. This does not mean that Herter has broken the American-free German front. It only means that he is seeking a measure of freedom that Dulles never sought.

3. Thus to edge closer to the position of the British, to bring to the Anglo-American alliance a more sympathetic touch.

Understands Capital

4. To put the state department more solidly into the good books of the Democratic foreign policy leaders in congress. They are already more behind Herter than they ever were behind Dulles. Herter, a former member of congress, understands the capital much better than Dulles. He is personally more in tune with the Democrats, for he never was much of a partisan Republican.

Understands Capitol

Thus, Christian Herter has carried subtle but important things back to Geneva. There was a notice that the United States has a new secretary of state with a new approach to maintain old principles. There was a desire to deal with the Russians with greater trust than in the past. And there was evidence that if Christian Herter is not outwardly as hard as Foster Dulles, his softer tones overlie the reverse of a soft political backing at home.

Mistakes in Richmond St. Work Reported

Sanitary Sewers Connected to Storm Outlets, City Told

At least three sanitary sewer connections of buildings on Richmond street are connected to storm sewers, the result of mistakes made last year in the Richmond street reconstruction project.

This was reported to the city council's street committee by a street department worker who investigated reports of flooded basements at three addresses.

The employee said he placed a colored solution in the nearby street storm sewer drain and the water turned up in the basements.

Other Actions

Whether the concrete, poured last summer by the state highway commission's contractor, must be broken to correct the situation has not been determined.

Other committee action: Ald. Priebe said he would check again with property owners of S. Jackson street between South River and Fremont streets on whether they want grading, graveling, curb and gutter. A majority wanted the work originally, except for the block between South River and Lincoln streets, he told an owner who filed a majority petition opposing all work. The project is scheduled for public hearing tonight but will be held until the Aug. 5 council meeting, the committee decided.

WHBY radio was given permission to break 33 feet of curb for an additional parking lot at its station on S. Lawe street providing it leaves a 5-foot-wide island between the new area and the old one, which has no curb.

Laterals Ordered

Sewer and water laterals were ordered for Taft and Hoover avenues, Lawe to Jackson; Rankin street, Woodland north a half block; Summit street, Frances to Marquette, and Jackson street, Taft to Hoover.

An asphalt mat was ordered installed on Harrison street, Carpenter to Harmon, where the crown of the street is in the wrong place. Tests will determine if there is enough gravel there to hold the mat. The charge is likely to be $1.50 a foot, it was said.

Grading and graveling was ordered on Summit street, Parkway to Taylor.

Curb, gutter and an asphalt mat was ordered on McDonald street, Glendale to Byrd, and on Taylor street, Mason to Summit.

Repair of the defective curb and driveway at 1232 E. Marquette street at city expense was denied.

Curb Radius

Solving of the flooded basement problem in the 300 block of N. Appleton street was postponed until the downtown area storm sewer project is ordered.

Action on the storm water problem of the S. C. C. Shannon company also was held, pending installation of a second sanitary sewer trunk in Ballard road.

Installation of a curb radius at the southwest corner of Calumet street and Kernan avenue, and sidewalk for the same corner, will solve the property owner's objection to having paid for the work and not received it, the committee said. This also is as much as the city can do about solving the problem of standing water in front of 1325 E. Calumet, the committee said.

Two requests were reported taken care of. They are:

Repair of the steps and handrails on the stairway between Jackman street and Prospect avenue.

Tack coat, at 16 cents a foot, for Helen street, Randall avenue to Amelia. Tack coat work can be ordered directly by the alderman to the street department, it was said.

Director of Public Works Duszynski was given paid leave to attend the American Public Works association's street opening problems between Wash., Sept. 14 to Sept. 30 at Forest and Newberry streets.

peal to the man on purchase of products?

In each of six key U. S. mar- keting centers today there are 10 housewives—scientifically selected from more than 2,000 applicants and scientifically trained to be guinea pigs in a unique consumer laboratory, sponsored by a magazine.

Each of the 60 women is part of a permanent panel of 10 in the chosen locality (Hart- ford, Conn.; Atlanta, Ga.; Chicago, Ill.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Westchester county and Flushing, N. Y.) Each was picked with the idea that she would represent the mid- dle-income group in her area, would reflect not only what we buy, but also why we buy it.

It was from the women in this marketing laboratory that the fascinating data with which I began this column came.

Of course, the magazine is financing this expensive re- search project to serve its own advertisers and get more of them. But in the pro- cess, it is breaking into new ground on the consumer re- search front, for it is asking housewives to act and think as housewives.

For instance, one anecdote that delights me concerns a big food company which had grandiose plans for a new re- home-cooked candy. It had tested and re-tested the candy and then it asked the house- wives to try it out.

Result? The candy has been withdrawn.

Reason? This multi-million

New Taxiways Proposed for Straubel Field

Aeronautics Head
Makes Suggestion to County Committee

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—Construction of about $74,000 in taxiways at Austin Straubel field was pro- posed to the Brown county board airport committee by T. K. Jordan, director of the Wisconsin Aeronautics com- mission.

Jordan met with the committee to discuss completion of the current $563,000 project at Straubel field and recom- mended that the taxiway pro- posal be included in state projects for the federal fiscal year which began July 1. Pro- posals for work by Wisconsin for this year must be submit- ted to the federal level by Sept. 1.

Tentative thinking for the taxiway project would have it financed from a request for federal participation for half the $116,000 spent by the coun- ty for land in the current pro- ject. To the $58,000 federal share would be added a re- quest for $16,000 in state funds.

To facilitate the present project, Brown county ad- vanced all money for land purchases under a plan to ask one-half federal participation in the next expansion project.

The taxiways are proposed to link apron areas adjoining the administration building with runways, including the instrument landing runway. This northeast-southwest run- way was lengthened from 4,000 to 5,200 feet as part of the present project.

New Traffic Sign Requires Yielding of Right-of-Way

A new state law effective a stop light or stop sign, and requires motorists to yield provides as follows:

"The operator of a vehicle, when approaching any intersection at which has been installed a yield right of way sign, shall yield the right of way to other vehicles which have entered the intersection from an intersecting highway or which are approaching so closely on the intersecting highway as to constitute a hazard of collision and, if coming cars, shall reduce speed to a safe level in order to so yield."

The new law authorizes the installation of the yield right of way sign only in cities and villages which by ordinance or resolution have provided for them. Further, they may be installed only at intersections over which the local government has exclusive jurisdiction, and where such intersection is not part of a through highway.

Motorists may also encounter yield signs of a different design at certain locations on the state or interstate system, particularly at interchanges or cloverleafs where vehicles enter the flow of traffic. It is especially important that vehicles entering the traffic flow on such roads exercise extreme caution to yield to oncoming cars.

The State Bar of Wisconsin offers this column to inform motorists of the new law. Facts may be found in the application of the law.

Red Cross Gives Homeowners Tornado Disaster Tips

The Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross has sent letters to every homeowner in the county giving directions of what to do during a tornado.

Miss Kathryn Osborn, head of the chapter, said, "Since we are responsible under the law for taking care of victims of natural disasters," "we have advised homeowners what to do if a tornado strikes."

The letter says homeowners should listen to radio and television when warnings are out. Other tips listed are:

1. When time permits, go to a storm cellar or underground excavation, preferably one

Dentists Should Operate Sitting Down, Study Says

John Doe may go for a dental checkup one day soon and find himself reclining comfortably on a chaise longue rather than sitting upright in the customary chair.

Furthermore, Doe likely will find his dentist operating from a sitting rather than standing position.

Importance of the dentist's position has been stressed by Dr. Sanford S. Golden, Los Angeles, assistant professor in the school of dentistry, University of Southern California, who conducted a study on human factors in dentistry.

He said that standing may contribute to the fact that 54.29 per cent of dentists die of circulatory disease.

Results of the study indicated strains were not present when the work was performed in a seated position.

Optimum working position for dentist and patient was found to be when both are seated and the patient's chair is tilted back at a 30 degree angle.

Menominee Mills Idled By Walkout

Workers Go on Strike Over Wages, Merit System

Post-Crescent News Service

Neopit—The Menominee Indian mills shut down today with some 300 workers idled. Employees voted to go on strike over a wage increase and other issues at a mass meeting Tuesday.

Joseph Waubanasum, a spokesman for the workers, said an increase of 19 cents an hour is asked. He also demanded an explanation of the merit system used by management. The base wage for sawmill employees now is $1.16 an hour.

Meeting Tonight
A general meeting of workers, mill, tribal and Indian bureau officials will be held tonight to air complaints and to attempt to reach a settlement of the labor dispute. Robert D. Holtz, Minneapolis, Minn., area director for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, will attend the session at St. Anthony school auditorium here. The strike vote followed the noontime mass meeting conducted from the porch of the mill's warehouse. About 200 attended and it was called shortly before the 1 o'clock whistle and the start of the afternoon work.

Lists Demands
Waubanasum stated the workers' demands at the request of Gordon Dickie, a logger and a member of the tribe's mills and forestry committee.

R. W. Dickinson, mills manager, was accused offering only certain employees incentive merit increases. The manager answered that he had invited employee representatives to negotiate the pay raise question, but they had refused the offer.

Tribal Chairman James G. Frechette explained that any wage increase would have to be approved by the Indian bureau office in Minneapolis.

Official Comes
Frechette made arrangements to get Holtz to come to tonight's meeting. The action came after workers turned down a proposal to send two

Board Recommends $886,000 Bond Sale

Low Bid Requires $328,635 in Interest for 20-Year Period

The city council tonight will be asked to sell $886,000 in tax-pledged bonds to an Illinois combine for a net effective interest rate of 3.4883 per cent.

First National Bank of Chicago, Robert W. Baird and company, Inc., and the Illinois company, Inc., low bidders among eight combines quoting prices, were recommended Tuesday by the board of public works.

The net effective interest rate means the $886,000 will cost the city $328,635 in interest before it is paid back to bondholders in the next 20 years.

City Clerk Broehm said the money will be paid back at the rate of $41,000 next year, $40,000 in 1961 and 1962 and $45,000 annually between 1963 and 1979.

Sewers, School
The money is earmarked this way: $750,000 for expansion of the sewer system to serve new areas and $136,000 for an addition to the vocational school. The school work is underway, and sewer work is expected to start shortly.

Monies from the bond issue which are not in use will be invested by City Treasurer Feuerstein at an average return of about 2 per cent. The period of investment, however, won't last more than two years, the time estimated for both projects.

The $750,000 in sewer bonds or three representatives to Minneapolis to settle the dispute.

Mill officials said today that a counter-offer of two hours overtime each week had been turned down by employee representatives. Officials said they were not empowered to negotiate the wage issue and pointed out that the Menominee Indian mills is one of the few major sawmills in the Great Lakes states operating on a full 40-hour week.

Although sawmill operations shut down Tuesday afternoon, logging operations continued in the woods and the lumber mill office remained open today. There was no picketing.

Former Appleton Schoolgirl Author of 'Steel Hour' Story

A former Appleton schoolgirl is the author of tonight's "Steel Hour" story on television, "The Pink Burro."

She is Mrs. Jean Riley, the former Jean Diderich, who attended Appleton High school and Lawrence college 20 or 25 years ago and now lives in West Los Angeles.

Her late father, William Diderich, was a truck farmer near Darboy.

Some might recall her sister, Marie, now about 60, who was famous hereabouts as the lady wrestler who grappled men and women alike. Marie appeared many times on cards at Waverly Beach. Mrs. Riley's story for the "Steel Hour" has some basis in fact.

It's about a former vaudeville performer who marries the proprietor of a small roadside restaurant, The Pink Burro. The couple's daughter, away studying singing, marries secretly and faces the problem of telling her mother. Mother is obsessed with daughter's career.

The smack of reality is the fact that Marie does operate a California roadside restaurant called "The Pink Burro" and has what might be called a vaudeville background.

8-Year-Old Boy Hit by Car as He Rides Bike

Eight-year-old Jon Beyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beyer, route 3, Appleton, was struck by a car shortly after 10:30 a.m. today as he turned his bicycle into the driveway of his home on County Trunk EE about a mile north of O.

Taken to Appleton Memorial hospital by Larry's ambulance, the boy was suffering from a severe concussion.

The boy was struck by a car driven by the Rev. George Scilley, 25, route 3, Appleton, who told County Police Sgt. Lowell Veitch and Patrolman Stanley Arnold that he was traveling about 50 miles an hour. The car traveled about 111 feet after hitting the boy.

Rural Kaukauna Woman Involved In Auto Accident

Green Bay — A car driven by Mrs. Katherine A. Simons, route 1, Kaukauna, was involved in a collision with an auto driven by Edwin R. Eliason, 62, Green Bay, at Highway 41 and County Trunk G Tuesday.

Eliason said he was attempting to cross the intersection and had checked for traffic but another car pulled alongside him to make a left turn and blocked his vision.

When Eliason's car reached the center of the intersection, it collided with the Simons car.

The Simons auto received about $700 damage and Eliason's, $250.

Administration leaders turned a cold shoulder to a proposal advanced over the weekend by the Agriculture Committee of the National Planning association that the government intervene to prevent what the association predicted will be a depression in the livestock industry in 1960.

Farm Plan
In a report entitled "Too Many Hogs," the association suggested payment of direct subsidies on hogs marketed during a period of adjustment of supplies.

The payment would be made on hogs sold at light weights—a measure which would be designed to hold the total volume of pork below what it otherwise would be.

$12.50 Ceilings
The payment would be designed to assure producers not more than $12.50 a hundred pounds for hogs weighing between 180 and 200 pounds. This is well below prices producers received in mid-May, but would be possibly 25 per cent more than producers might otherwise get at the peak of production during the next 12 months.

WFU Says Chamber Plays 'Politics' With Farm Marketing Bill

President Claims State Marketing Proposal Has Bi-Partisan Support

The Wisconsin Farmers' union has charged that the Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce is attempting to make a political football out of a state agricultural marketing bill.

"The chamber's on this bill completely misrepresents the fact that it is bi-partisan," declared WFU President Gilbert Rhode is a statement issued at the union's headquarters in Chippewa Falls.

"Friends of the farmers in both parties are solidly on record in favor of this bill and the principles on which it is based," Rhode said.

The WFU president referred to an attack on the bill carried in a recent bulletin on governmental affairs published by the chamber. The bill has passed the assembly and is pending in the state senate.

The chamber says the bill would give control over production marketing of all agricultural products to the state department of agriculture. It would create an advisory board and would authorize the department to issue marketing orders which would restrict the production and marketing of agricultural products.

It would authorize creation of a stabilization fund to purchase surpluses and would, in effect, create a little Commodity Credit corporation on the state level. It would be financed by assessments of 6 1/2 per cent of the gross revenue of the handlers and producers effected by the controls.

A representative of the Wisconsin Creameries association claims that the bill would cost Wisconsin farmers $32,500,000 annually.

The chamber reports that the proposal is Democratic-sponsored and drafted largely by a former Farmers' unionist now on Gov. Nelson's staff. It calls the proposal a political bill with a tendency to socialize agriculture.

GOP-Sponsored

Rhode said that the proposal originated in the 1957 legislature and was then sponsored by a Republican. He said the bill has received bi-partisan support. (The chamber bulletin denies this.)

"This bill is modeled directly upon the agricultural self-help marketing laws of California which were adopted with bi-partisan support by Republican governors and Republican-controlled legislatures in that state," Rhode said.

Self-Help

"The principle of 'self-help' and 'locally-controlled' farm marketing program is specifically endorsed by the national party platforms of both the Republican and Democratic parties."

"The truth is that it is simply enabling legislation. It would allow groups of farmers to work out their own self-financed, self-help plans to promote their particular industries. Then, if the required two-thirds majority of the industry affected give their direct assent—and only then—the farmers' plan could be put into operation. It would be administered by a committee of farmers from the affected industry," Rhode said.

Many Kinds

Top Beef Breeds on County Fair Exhibit

BY VICTOR WAWIORKA
Superintendent of Dairy and Beef

The most popular breeds of beef found in the United States and Wisconsin are the developments of beef breeding in the British Isles. However, the popularity of the beef breeds originated and developed in the United States is increasing steadily.

The most popular breeds which have been developed in the British Isles are the Aberdeen Angus, Hereford, Red Poll, and the Shorthorn. The most popular beef animal as far as numbers raised are the Hereford and Shorthorn.

Many of these breeds will be seen at the Outagamie County fair at Seymour, July 15 to 19.

U. S. Breeds
There have been a number of beef breeds developed in the United States. Some of the more popular breeds are Brangus, cross of a Brahman and an Aberdeen Angus; Santa Gertrudis, a cross of a Shorthorn and the Brahman; the Beefmaster, a cross of a Brahman with a product of a cross of a Shorthorn and Hereford. The Charbray is also popular and it is a cross between the Charelaise, a French beef animal and a Brahman, an Indian development. These are the most popular breeds of beef animals found in the United States.

In the dairy division, there are five major breeds of milk producing animals. The Holstein is the most numerous. It is an animal with a large body capacity and consequently produces large amounts of milk.

The average butterfat test of a Holstein is from 3.5 per cent to 4.0 per cent. The average weight of a mature cow is approximately 1,300 pounds and the bull may weight up to a ton or more.

Smallest Breed
From the largest to the smallest which is the Jersey, it found its origin in the Island of Jersey in the English channel. The Jerseys are known for their high butterfat production and average well over 5.2 butterfat. The color of a Jersey ranges from a fawn to a cream. The mature cow weighs 900 pounds and the bull around 1,650 pounds.

The Guernsey originated in the English channel on the Island of Guernsey. The Guernsey is a little larger and more rugged animal than the Jersey. The Guernsey is known for its rich yellow milk and the animal can be easily recognized by its fawn and white markings. The average butterfat test is 4.5 per cent to 5.0 per cent. Mature cows average around 1,100 pounds and the bull 1,750 pounds.

The Ayrshire is known as the "Aristocrat of the Dairy Breeds" and can be easily identified by its prominent head and distinct set of horns. It originated in Scotland and the color varies from near pure white to cherry red. Their milk tests from 4.0 per cent to 4.5 butterfat. The average weight of a mature cow is 1,200 pounds and the bull 1,800 pounds.

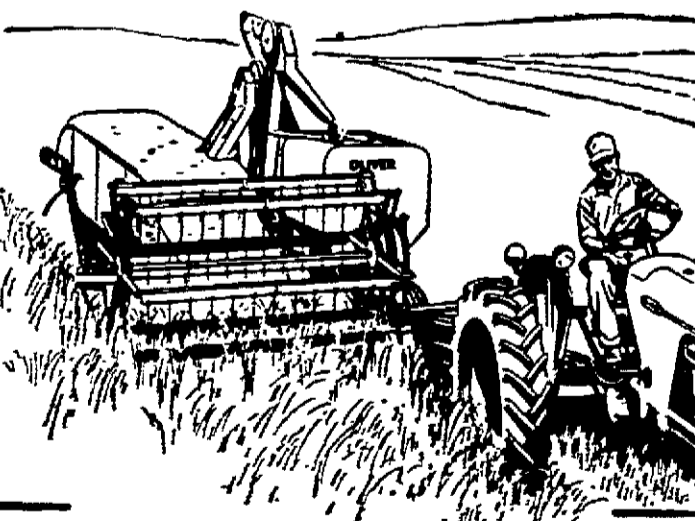

Oldest Breed
The oldest of all breeds comes from Switzerland and is called the Brown Swiss. It is a large rugged animal and color markings range from silver to dark brown. They test from 4.0 per cent to 4.5 butterfat. The mature cow weighs 1,300 pounds and the bull around 2,000 pounds.

These are the five major breeds but there are important dual purpose breeds. The dual purpose animals can be milked profitably and the calves can be raised for beef. Also, the carcass yields a higher dressing percentage than most dairy animals.

The two most popular dual purpose breeds are the Red Poll and the Milking Shorthorn. They originated in England. These animals are most popular in the North Central dairy states in the United States.

OLIVER 18 COMBINE

Harvests More, Saves More

Harvesting goes faster with an Oliver Model 18 pull-type. You take a full 7-foot cut with its floating, auger-type header. Right behind it are field-proven units to save more of every grain and bean crop.

First of all, a semi-revolving reel reduces shattering by descending straight into the crop. Then another grain-saver takes over. Oliver's "Man Behind the Gun" traps 90% of the grain right at the cylinder, sends it directly to the cleaning shoe before it can mix with straw and chaff. Finally, extra pitching by extra long walkers shakes out the remaining kernels.

There's a lot more to see—the swinging drawbar, 25-bushel tank, husky tubular frame, adjustable concaves. Engine or PTO model; hydraulic or counterbalanced hand lift.

Sweet Spot Dale Beekeeper Holds Down Honey of a Job

BY DAVID APKER
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Howard Rock, Dale, has a honey of a job—and he couldn't have found a sweeter place to work.

Rock, a professional beekeeper with 20 years experience, has set up an apiary on the Harvey Blue farm, route 1, Dale. His bees make honey in the same woods where Blue takes off a fine flow of sweet-tasting maple syrup each year.

Early Start

The Dale beekeeper describes his vocation with the devotion of a true professional and knowledge born of long experience. He became interested in bees as a youngster when his father, a well-known Dale veterinarian, brought home some of the creatures with an eye to keeping the family in a steady supply of honey. It fell to the young Rock to take care of the bees. It was just a step from part-time beekeeping to eventual adoption of the work as a profession.

Rock's profession has taken him throughout the United States and into Canada, but he still regards the Blue woods as a nearly ideal place to raise bees.

"The bees are properly sheltered on three sides and the hives front on gently sloping fields with good wind drafts," he explains. (Bees, it seems, are particular about where they live. Honey production is directly affected by their environment.)

Has he ever been stung? He has, and countless numbers of times, Rock says. He recalls that a particularly unfriendly breed of bees made his arm look like he had measles. The ability to avoid being stung comes with practice, according to Rock. A professional knows how to work around bees and thus avoid stings. Rock offers a bit of advice to amateurs—most bees won't sting as long as a person doesn't block the line of flight between the bees and their hive.

Each breed of bee has personality characteristics all its own, Rock says. Some are fairly mild-tempered, others are habitually downright nasty. Caucasian bees are even-tempered. (They are the variety Rock has on the Blue farm.) They contemptuously ignore most intruders and generally follow an "You leave me alone and I'll leave you alone" policy. Other varieties (Cyprians, for example) will take after unwanted visitors for the pure joy of it.

One Difficulty

There's only one difficulty, Rock comments—most people are neither trained, or have time, to check the variety of bee they are associating with before the little fellow bores in to apply his sting.

Whatever their temper, bees are industrious creatures who will work long hours in a frantic effort to extract nectar, Rock declares.

Howard Rock, a Professional beekeeper, has set up his apiary on the Harvey Blue farm, route 1, Dale. In the upper photo Rock poses with a few of his 40 beehives. In the lower photo he checks a section of a hive. Rock's profession has taken him throughout the United States and into Canada.

Feeder Pig Day Planned

A Feeder Pig Field day will be held on Friday at Francis Creek, Wis.

Farmers will be able to see the feeder pigs which were brought to the two feeder pig shows held at Chilton and Seymour during the early part of April.

Prof. Giesler, from the college of agriculture, who helped judge the feeder pigs will lead a discussion on the way that the pigs were judged.

The pigs will go to slaughter at a plant at Madison on July 21 where carcass information will be gathered.

The field day will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Interested parties can come at any time, and will be given a tour of the feeder pig assembly area and feeding out lot.

Leave for Virginia

Seymour — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wagner, route 1, Seymour, and their daughter, Mrs. Marvin Wittmann and family, Little Chute, left Sunday for Norfolk, Va., where Merle Wagner is stationed with the U. S. navy. Wagner will return with them to spend a 15-day leave with relatives.

School District Meeting Set For Weyauwega

Weyauwega — voters of the Weyauwega Union High school district will hold their annual meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the high school gymnasium.

Elected from the city and town of Weyauwega, village and town of Fremont and towns of Lind, Royalton, Waupaca and Wolf River are eligible to attend.

Board members to replace Leo Richter and Albert Hahn, whose terms have expired, will be elected.

Other business on the agenda includes exercising an option on the Cohen property and adopting a budget.

Annual ASC Vote Set in 2 Counties

ASC committeemen will be elected in Waupaca and Calumet counties this month as farmers join other counties in annual balloting.

Balloting will be done by mail in both counties.

Calumet county voting starts today and ends Aug. 5. Waupaca voting starts today and ends Aug. 3.

Farmers can mail their ballots to the county ASC offices.

Mrs. Houston Nips Judy Manier on Nineteenth Hole Meets Mary Fossum Today in Finals of NEW Women's Meet

Green Bay — A rivalry that shows possibilities of equaling that of the famed Mary McMillin - Joan Coffeen feud of a few years ago moved to its first boiling point of the season at Shorewood Country club Tuesday. And Mary—now Mrs. Bruce Fossum—is again one of the principals. Tuesday she smashed her way into the finals of the Northeastern Wisconsin Women's tournament by crushing her Oneida clubmate, Charlotte Biskner, 8 and 7. Defending champion Rita Houston, who conquered Mrs. Fossum in the semifinals, will meet her in the final today.

'Red' Expects To be Playing In September

Braves Second Sacker May Train in August For Part-Time Duty

St. Louis — (AP) — "Red" Schoendienst expects to be back in the Milwaukee Braves' lineup by September as a part-time performer. "I don't know how much I can play and won't until I see how the legs and wind hold up," the red-haired, 36-year-old second baseman said. Schoendienst, who was stricken with tuberculosis nine months ago, said that his own version of spring training will begin late next month with the approval of Dr. William Werner, his physician. Dr. Werner cautioned that "Red" probably won't be able to play every day in September, but he added "I don't expect any restrictions on what he can do next year. "Right now I feel I can play nine innings," Red said, adding that he had been throwing for the last month "as strong as I can." He expects to begin running next month. Manager Fred Haney of the Braves, who has been shuttling players into the breach at second base all season long, with uniformly unsatisfactory results, said in Chicago "I'd be tickled to death to see 'Red' join the team. "But as far as workouts are concerned," he added, "that's up to 'Red's' doctors."

New London Hassle

Fraternization With Athletes Attacked

New London — Fraternizing sports at the high school athletes school. Lloyd S. Qualley, superintendent of schools, also suggested the possibility of organizing a school council consisting of students and faculty members to protect the coaches in making awards. The council would assure coaches that they won't award athletic letters to players who break the training rules. It also will protect the coaches from the problem of discipline by making it almost mandatory for each coach to follow the practice. Collier admitted that a treaty for the players at the end of the year is not harmful. No Parties Coach Bob Dehlinger, Bulldog football mentor, said that he did not think that a party for the players at the end of a season was harmful. He said, however, he does not have parties for the football players. Coach Dehlinger attended the meeting to discuss equipment needs for the football and basketball teams. He said new football uniforms have been ordered at a cost of about $1,300. It was pointed out during the discussion that the athletic department will be requested to supply a budget for this year's purchases for next year. Collier suggested the budget after it was pointed out that the school board is sub-

Butterfingers Braves Lose To Cubs' Bill Henry, 10 to 5

Losers Commit Three Errors; Aaron Homers

Chicago — Chicago's Bill Henry handcuffed Milwaukee for 5 1-3 innings in relief Tuesday and drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the seventh as the Cubs whipped the Braves, 10-5. The Cubs jammed across four runs, only one of them earned, in the seventh to break a 5-5 deadlock and coast to a win before 21,157 fans at Wrigley field. The Braves committed three errors that contributed to their downfall after they had played the Cubs on even terms through the first six innings. Two of the Braves' first four runs also were unearned when the Cubs kicked the ball around. Hank Aaron got his twenty-fourth home run of the season for the Braves in the sixth inning to give Milwaukee a 5-4 lead but Earl Averill also homered in that inning to knot the score. Fifth Homer Lee Walls hit his fifth homer for the Cubs in the first with a runner aboard and doubles by Banks and Art Schult gave Chicago three runs in that inning. Milwaukee got one run in the first on an infield hit by Billy Bruton, a walk to Eddie Mathews, a forceout and a fielder's choice. The Braves added another in the second on Del Crandall's scratch hit.

Demons Win Finale, 12-7

Drop Fox Cities to 5th Place; Kenders Drives in Six Runs, Weatherspoon Has Four RBIs

Des Moines, Ia. — The Fox Cities Foxes — except for their four All-Star selectees — started a 2-day break today holding a 4-4 Three-I league second round record at the respite. The Foxes had a 3-game winning streak snapped Tuesday night by Des Moines, 12-7, as the Demons salvaged the finale of a 3-game series. The loss dropped the Foxes to fifth place. Offensively, the Foxes once again did the job expected of them. But, as has frequently been the case this season, Fox Cities pitching wasn't up to its responsibilities. Rap 13 Hits The Foxes outth Des Moines, 13-10, and slammed four doubles. All-star catcher "Chuck" Weatherspoon rattled a double and three singles and knocked in three runs. All-Star shortstop "Zorro" Versalles doubled and singled as did Jake Wood. "Star" third baseman "Potato" Pascual had a pair of singles. Starter Fred Bruckbauer was treated roughly for the second straight time after shutting out first round champ Green Bay. Bruckbauer left in a 6-run Des Moines seventh inning and suffered his third loss in five decisions. A 1 Kenders had six runs batted in for Des Moines with a grand-slam home run and a 2-run double. Score, Twice The Foxes scored two runs in the top of the first on a double by Wood, one by Versalles and a run-scoring single by Weatherspoon. In the last half of the first the Demons tallied four on a walk and infield singles by Bill McGuckin and Cal Emery and then Kenders' grand-slam. The Foxes tied it with two in the third Versalles singled, stole second and then scored on Hernan Vila's double. Weatherspoon singled for his second of three RBIs. Fox Cities grabbed a 5-4 lead in the fifth. Weatherspoon singled, scoring Versalles who had reached on an error. Des Moines went ahead to stay with two runs in the sixth. Emory doubled and then Pascual had a 2-base throwing error on Kennedy's ground ball, allowing Emory to score. Then Wayne Graham singled in Kennedy. Des Moines chased Bruckbauer in the 6-run seventh. Cedar Rapids Wins in 15th Beats Lincoln on Joe Trenary's 3-Run Homer

By The Associated Press Big innings proved decisive in Tuesday night's Three-I League baseball games, including a 15-inning win, 11-8, for Cedar Rapids over Lincoln. Joe Trenary's 3-run homer off reliever Bryant Wassell won for Cedar Rapids after Lincoln had battled back for a tie with five runs in the sixth and three in the ninth. Des Moines scored six runs in the seventh and beat the Fox Cities, 12-7. Green Bay boosted its league lead to 1 1/2 games by beating Sioux City, 8-2. Doug Camilli's 2-run double featured a 5-run spurt for the Bluejays in the eighth inning to wrap up pitcher Pete Richter's eighth victory. Burlington edged Topeka, 8-7, on a ninth-inning squeeze play. After Horace Ingram's triple and two walks loaded the bases, Ralph Holding attempted a squeeze bunt and missed. But the ball got away from Topeka catcher Don Pavletich and Ingram scored. Lincoln 630 665 683 693 695—8 11 6 C. Yanks Beat Indians, 1-0, Behind Duren And Whitey Ford

Hold Tribe to 5 Hits; Chisox Roll to 7-3 Win Over Boston

By The Associated Press

What's wrong with the New York Yankees? Take your pick. What's right with the champs? Only one answer. Ryne Duren.

The big, right-handed reliever has washed Yankee fans, you might say, with a string of 32-2, 3 scoreless innings in 17 games since April 30. And he hasn't piled up that streak, longest in the majors this season, against any pushovers.

Fact is, a third of the string has been run up against Cleveland, and Tuesday night he paired with a tired Whitey Ford for a 5-hit, 1-0 victory over the Indians that trimmed their American league lead to mere percentage points. It also halted the Yankees' skid at five games and left them 6½ games behind in fourth.

While Duren was nailing it with a 2-inning, 1-hit mopup capped by three strikeouts in the ninth, Chicago's second-place White Sox closed with a .002 percentage points of Cleveland with a 7-3 victory at Boston.

Third-place Baltimore moved within four games of the lead by splitting a two-night doubleheader with last place Kansas City, winning 3-1 after being blanked 1-0 by Ray Herbert's 4-hit pitching. Washington tumbled Detroit to fifth, 4-2.

The Yankees, now 6-6 against the Indians for the year, beat a wild Herb Score (9-7) although they managed just four singles. Score walked eight, two in the second inning ahead of Bobby Richardson's 2-out single that scored the run.

Ford Relieves

Ford, now 9-6 with Duren's seventh save in the shutout string, also allowed four singles. Working with only three days' rest, the little lefty walked five, all in the first three innings, and struck out four.

The Indians gave Duren, who has fanned 43 in his streak, a tough time in the eighth when the Yankees mopped up a pair of double-play balls after Tito Francona's leadoff single. An error and a wild pitch put the tying run on third with two out, but when Woody Held tried to score after a pitch caught catcher Yogi Berra, he was nailed at the plate on Berra's toss to Duren.

Billy Pierce won his tenth for a .500 record as the White Sox won their fourth in a row. But he was tagged for home runs by Don Buddin and Jackie Jensen and needed Turk Lown's relief for the last two outs against the Red Sox, who had won five straight. Ted Wills (2-6) lost it in a 3-run fourth when Chicago overhauled a 2-1 Boston lead on an error and rookie Jim McAnany's two-run single.

A's Get Five Hits

Herbert (7-7), who pitched his first major league shutout in his last start, ran his scoreless inning streak to 18. The A's had only five hits and were blanked until the ninth, when Harry Chiti's popfly double beat Billy O'Dell (5-7). The Orioles came back on a five-hitter by Milt Pappas (10-4) and Willy Tashy's homer off loser Johnny Kucks (3-5). Roger Maris homered for the A's.

Rookie Bob Allison hit his twenty-third home run and Roy Sievers smacked his eleventh for the Senators, who made four of their five hits good for extra bases while edging within a half-game of the Tigers. A walk and consecutive triples by Hal Naragon and Billy Consoled beat Frank Lary (9-7) in the fourth. Pete Ramos (10-8) won it with an 8-hitter.

Olmedo, MacKay Late for Tourney; Cause Stir by Not Showing Up

Chicago — Two players, Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay, who did not appear during the first two days of the National Clay Courts tennis tournament have caused more excitement than those who did.

The matches Monday and Tuesday unfolded fairly routinely with only one major upset. R. Dennis Ralston, 16-year-old junior from Bakersfield, Calif., defeated Donald Dell, No. 7 seed of Bethesda, Md., 6-8, 6-3, 6-4 Tuesday. Ralston later entered the round of 16 on a 6-0, 6-0 whitewash of Chicago's John Blasingame.

Olmedo and MacKay, the show's top two stars, were scheduled to appear early Tuesday after European tournaments.

About noon, MacKay, of Dayton, Ohio, phoned to say he could not arrive until evening, so his first round match was moved into today.

C. P. Hennessy, tournament chairman, said officials telephoned Olmedo in New York and that he refused to accept the call.

Then Alex appeared at the club gate in midafternoon and was refused admittance because nobody recognized him.

The 23-year-old hero of the victorious United States Davis cup team and newly crowned Wimbledon champion, later told officials he would not compete until today.

Seeded players who advanced to the men's round of 16 included defending champion Bernard "Tut" Bartenz, Dallas; Earl Buchholz, Jr., St. Louis; Whitney Reed, Alameda, Calif.; Chris Crawford, Piedmont, Calif.; Grant Golden, Evanston, Ill.; Ian Vermaak and Abe Segal, both of South Africa; Warren Woodcock, Australia, and Iyo Pimentel, Venezuela.

Benton, Mims In TV Bout

Divisional Ranking For Philadelphia Is at Stake

Miami Beach, Fla. — George Benton will try to throw his respected knockout punch at the strong jaw of eighth ranked Holly Mims in a 10-round middle-weight bout tonight at Miami Beach auditorium.

Benton, feared because of his solid right, has managed only 41 fights in 10 years. He won 19 by knockouts and lost only four.

The unranked 26-year-old puncher from Philadelphia gets his chance at a divisional ranking against Mims in the national television bout. The fight will be carried by ABC starting at 9 p. m. (CDT).

Mims, 30, from Washington, D. C., never has been knocked out in 69 fights. He has lost 13 decisions, one of them to Benton in an eight round bout at Philadelphia in 1952.

Mrs. Houston Defeats Judy Manier, Appleton hit her tee shot into the rough, scuffed her second and was still off the green with a bad lie in three, then punched her approach to within two yards of the cup.

She missed her try, however, and Rita calmly canned her par 5 to take a match that had suddenly become hotter, than expected. Thanks to Miss Manier's spurt, she actually outscored the champion in regulation distance, 82-84.

Devastating Round

Meanwhile Mrs. Fossum had thoroughly shattered Miss Biskner's aspirations with the most devastating round of the tournament to date.

A scorching first nine count of 37 left her opponent floundering eight holes down at the turn, and when Charlotte could do no better than halve the tenth and eleventh the match was over.

Having settled the immediate priority, Mary finished out the round with a score of 76, a stroke lower than her sparkling 77 of Monday. This, together with qualifying and first rounds of 84-85-77, gave Houston a 54-hole total of 238. Mrs. Houston went into this morning's final with a 246 total, close enough to insure one of the tightest battles the Northeastern has seen in years.

The junior title match will be the last round of an Onondaga-Pine Hills tussle that ended in a standoff after Tuesday's semifinals at a victory apiece.

Battles Back

Nancy Buth of Oneida carried Mary Ann Testuilde to the last green before losing an uphill fight. Down three after seven holes and again after ten, Nancy battled back to take a one-up margin after 18 but went under as Mary Ann parred the last two holes.

Caren Culp led all the way in her match with Jill Kohler, but the latter was never out of reach until the last three holes. A pair of nines on the 16th and 17th, however, finished the Sheboygan youngster.

Anyone who thinks golf isn't an outdoor game is reckoning without Shorewood's wild life. Monday it was a pugnacious bird. Yesterday it was an amphibious gopher.

As one match came up to the 10th green, an astonished player saw her ball taking off for the tall grass under its own power. It was being propelled by an energetic gopher, intent on holding out an unflagged cup — its own CHAMPIONSHIP.

2 Hurt in Dynamite Cap Blast

Kaukauna — Throwing a dynamite cap into a rubbish fire resulted in minor face cuts to Phil DeBruin, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl DeBruin, 1811 Florence street, and David VanWychen, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard VanWychen, 141 Arthur street, about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A neighbor, F. A. Merckx, 1812 Florence street, heard the cap explode and children screaming. He called police who investigated and the boys showed them about 50 dynamite caps they had found in a field near their home.

The boys did not know what the caps were and tossed them into the fire, along with other debris. Playing with them but uninjured were Neil DeBruin, 5, Phil's brother, and Jim Vander Bloomen, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vander Bloomen, Jr., 200 Claribel street. Police searched the field this morning and found about 20 more caps. All were reported missing from Murphy's stone quarry several months ago.

Chief Harold Engerson said the children were lucky they had thrown only one cap into the blaze as several might have proved fatal. He urged parents to check items picked up by youngsters and to be wary of shells or wires unfamiliar to them.

Prisoner Sentenced To Reformatory for Stealing Two Cars

Leonard Eichorst, 22, now serving a 1-to-2 year term in the state reformatory for burglary, Tuesday in municipal court was sentenced to a year in the reformatory and two years of probation on two counts of auto theft.

Eichorst's 1-year term will run concurrently with his present sentence, imposed March 14, 1958. The probation will begin when he is released from the reformatory and is conditional on his repayment of damage to the two cars.

Eichorst admitted taking the cars in Black Creek, Wis., wrecking both of them near the village. He said he had been drinking.

Share Prices Move Ahead

Moderate Gains Recorded Despite Steel Walkout

New York — The stock market advanced moderately early this afternoon despite the steel strike.

Steels, nonferrous metals, chemicals, and electronics made good headway.

Gains of fractions to well over a point were scored by pivotal stocks. The space age issues bounded ahead at the start then cut back their gains as buying interest served to higher quality equities.

Rails back away slightly from their rally of Tuesday.

Airlines, aircraft, tobaccos, building materials and rubbers were mixed.

Trading was fairly active and cautious optimism seemed to prevail. Steel inventories were at a record level so the side effects of the steel strike were not expected to be serious unless the strike is a very long one.

Brokers recalled that in the 1956 strike, steel shares made a big advance.

U.S. Steel advanced more than a point while Youngstown Sheet and Lukens Steel added about 2 each. Lukens declared its usual dividend.

Johns-Manville spurted 2. Magma Copper rose more than 1 while Kennecott and American smelting rose about 1 each.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 40 cents to $232.30 with the industrials up $1.10, the rails down 30 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

U.S. government bonds were steady.

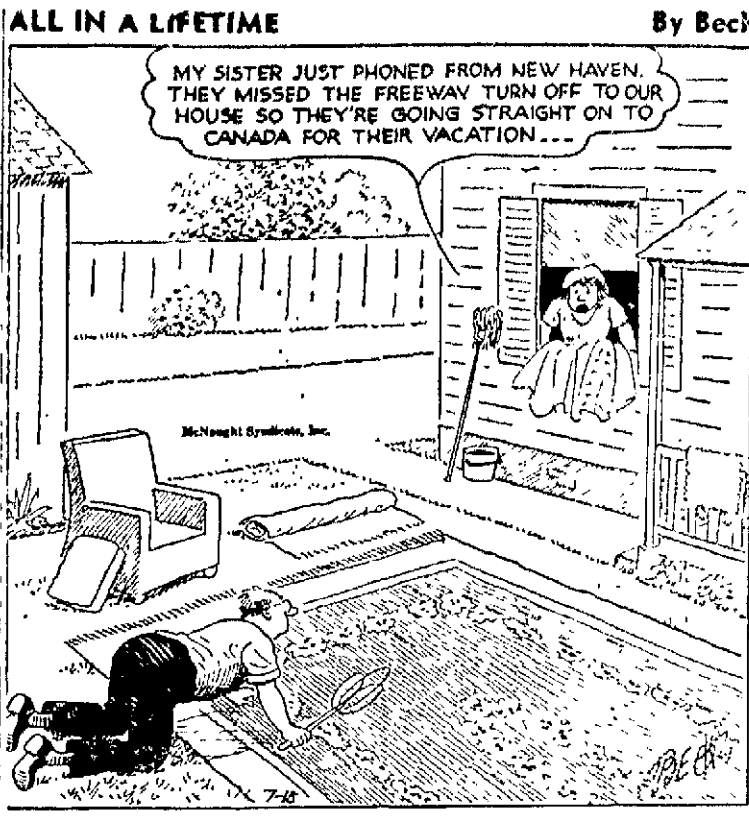

Bomb Threat Stops Airplane

Lansing, Mich. — A North Central Airlines DC-7 en route from Houghton, Mich. to Detroit with 11 passengers was stopped at Lansing Tuesday night after an anonymous phone caller said a bomb had been planted on the plane.

State police and FBI agents searched the plane for 45 minutes. No bomb was discovered. The airliner, which started its flight at Green Bay, Wis., was allowed to proceed to Detroit.
